Showdown At Hand On Move
To Limit Hearing TestimonyDemocrats, Army
Ready To Oppose
Republican Plan

WASHINGTON, May 9 (AP)—The McCarthy-Army hearings go into their 13th day tomorrow with a showdown imminent on a new Republican move to cut them short.

Sen. Dirksen (R-Ill.) is ready to ask a vote in the Senate Investigations subcommittee on his proposal that further public testimony in the bitter, nationally televised controversy be limited to the two main antagonists—Secretary of the Army Stevens and Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis.).

Democrats are set to fight any such proposal. So is the Army, side in the dispute. And a top Republican Senate leader, Sen. Millikin (Colo.), sounded a note of caution today, too. He told an interviewer that the "public interest must be considered."

Purpose Of Hearings

The hearings are supposed to determine whether (1) the McCarthy camp, as Army officials charge, brought improper pressure to get favors for draftee G. David Schine, and (2) Army officials, as McCarthy charges, tried to block an investigation of alleged subversion at Ft. Monmouth, N.J.

McCarthy, who has been supporting efforts of other Republicans to shorten the hearings, criticized Democratic members of the subcommittee yesterday in a speech in Wausau, Wis., and accused them of deliberately trying to prolong the inquiry.

"It's been clear for a long time," McCarthy said, "that their principal function is to keep us from digging out Communists."

But Sen. McClellan (D-Ark.), senior Democratic member, said the controversy stems from a period last year when the Democrats were taking no part in the subcommittee's activities.

Protested "Obnoxious Rule"

"He (McCarthy) certainly had seven months without interference by Democratic members," McClellan commented in Washington. "We were off the committee in protest of an obnoxious rule which delegated to him unprecedented powers exclusively to hire and discharge and control staff members. These hearings grow out of incidents that occurred while he had that authority and no interference whatsoever from the Democrats."

Members of the Senate Republican Policy Committee were reported urging the White House over the week end to try to induce the Pentagon people to accept some agreement for a short-end to the hearings. There is a widespread feeling in the GOP that a continued inquiry can only give the Democrats ammunition for the November election campaign.

Jordan Charges
Israeli Attack

JERUSALEM, May 9 (AP)—A high Jordan official charged today that a band of 90 Israelis attacked the Jordan village of Illin, in the Hebron area today, and fired on an investigating U. N. team after two Israeli soldiers were killed.

He said Jordan national guardsmen and Arab Legion troops repulsed the attack in which an Israeli officer and an Israeli private were left dead.

The official, Dr. Yusef Haikal, senior Jordan delegate to the Mixed Armistice Commission, asked for an emergency meeting of the commission tomorrow to study two complaints Haikal has lodged with it.

Haikal also said a Jordanian farmer was kidnapped by Israelis and shot dead near Zabab village, in Jordan's northern sector. During a clash that followed, national guardsmen arrested an Israeli who had penetrated more than 200 yards inside Jordan territory in a jeep, Haikal said.

An Israeli military spokesman announced in the Israel sector of Jerusalem that it was believed two Israeli policemen had been killed in a frontier clash with Jordanians in the southern Judean mountains.

Senate Steps Up
Appropriations
Bill Timetable

WASHINGTON, May 9 (AP)—The Senate got a rugged new timetable today—passage of all major money bills before the new fiscal year begins July 1.

Sen. Bridges (R-NH), chairman of the Appropriations Committee, set this target as part of a drive to reach an early adjournment of Congress in this election year. Appropriation bills frequently have delayed adjournment in years past.

The start of the new fiscal year is only 50 days away and so far the Senate has not cleared any of the more than a dozen annual appropriations that supply funds for government agencies.

Bridges said in an interview, however, that "We're in good shape for the first time in a number of years." He said the House already has completed action on more than half of the money bills and "our subcommittees are well up on their hearings."

Bridges expects the Senate to complete action on the first of the money bills next Wednesday or Thursday. It is a $3,332,750,000 measure for the Treasury and Post Office Departments.

Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis.) is chairman of the appropriations subcommittee handling it but Bridges took over McCarthy's duties at an unusual Saturday afternoon session to complete action.

McCarthy has been tied up daily in the investigation of his dispute with Pentagon officials. He left the city late Friday for some weekend speeches.

Last year, McCarthy's subcommittee broke precedent by approving the Treasury-Post Office appropriation just as it came from the House.

As a result the measure was rushed through the full committee and the Senate without change and went directly to the President.

President And First Lady
Attend Church In Richmond

RICHMOND, Va., May 9 (AP)—President and Mrs. Eisenhower attended Mother's Day services at St. Paul's Episcopal Church today in company with a colorful 300-man honor guard of Richmond's Historic Light Infantry Blues.

The President and the First Lady flew from Washington to this capital of the Civil War Confederacy for the ceremonies.

They were met by Gov. Thomas B. Stanley.

Also on hand to greet the President was a West Point classmate, Maj. Gen. William F. Tompkins, who served on the general staff with Eisenhower under Gen. Douglas MacArthur. Tompkins, a warden of St. Paul's Church, was greeted with a familiar "Hello there, Bill" from the President.

It was Eisenhower's first trip to Richmond since the 1952 presidential campaign, and the President got a warm welcome. Crowds turned out to welcome him and

Fate Of Dien Bien Phu
Wounded Is Mystery

SAIGON, Indochina, May 9 (AP)—What has become of the wounded at Dien Bien Phu?

An observation plane which flew over the shattered fortress today dropped medical supplies but brought back no word to Gen. Henri Navarre, French Union commander in Indochina, on what happened to the wounded after Red-led rebels overwhelmed the northern Indochinese stronghold Friday.

The wounded, estimated at 800 to 1,000, lay on litters in an underground hospital as the 57-day siege reached its climax. No word of their fate has reached the outside world. Nor has there been any word of the French nurse, Genevieve de Galard Terraube, who had been caring for them.

French Appeals Ignored

The rebels turned a deaf ear to French appeals for an armistice during the siege to permit removal of the battle casualties by plane. Any word on the disposition of the wounded now will have to come from the Vietminh. Whether any prisoner exchanges can be worked out is a question for the future.

Military men here said the rebels' past practice has been to leave French and Vietnamese wounded on the battlefield after administering elementary first aid. Then the French were allowed to pick them up.

A French High Command spokesman in Hanoi said he doubted whether the rebels now would mount another general offensive in northern Indochina before the seasonal monsoon rains hit their peak at the end of June.

Red Battle Corps "Broken"

"Their battle corps is broken," the spokesman said, referring to heavy rebel losses in the long fight to crush Dien Bien Phu.

Overall Vietminh losses in that fight since the first human wave assault March 13 have been estimated as high as 35,000. Gen. Navarre, however, puts the figure at about 18,000.

The little kingdom of Laos in northwestern and west central Indochina, one of the three Indochinese states associated with France in the French Union, was swept by a wave of uneasiness in the wake of Dien Bien Phu's fall.

(Peiping) Radio said Sunday night that the Communist chairman of Laos' "Peace Committee" has issued a statement claiming the people of that Indochinese state are rallying behind the Communist movement.

Zhukov Praises
U.S. For Helping
Win World War II

MOSCOW, May 9 (AP)—Marshal Georgi K. Zhukov gave the Western Big Three a rare word of praise today for their part in World War II. But at the same time he assailed present American foreign policy as aggressive.

Writing in Pravda on the occasion of V-E Day, Marshal Zhukov, captor of Berlin in 1945 and now a first deputy minister of defense, singled out President Eisenhower and Field Marshal Lord Montgomery for special words of praise.

"The Soviet people will never forget the heroism of the peoples of France, Britain and the United States and their other allies who fought with them against the Fascist hordes," he wrote in the Communist party organ.

Writing in Pravda on the occasion of V-E Day, Marshal Zhukov, captor of Berlin in 1945 and now a first deputy minister of defense, singled out President Eisenhower and Field Marshal Lord Montgomery for special words of praise.

The first part of the ceremony went off quietly. Throongs cheered in moderation as an automobile carried the tall and greying soldier up the Champs Elysees.

It was sometime after he left through the barrier at the Place Franklin D. Roosevelt, halfway between the arch and the Place de La Concorde.

Police blocked them and a fight followed, with police clubs swinging.

Dulles, House
Unit To Study
Asia StrategySession Tomorrow
Will Revolve Around
Collective Security

WASHINGTON, May 9 (AP)—Secretary of State Dulles goes before the House Foreign Affairs Committee Tuesday for a closed door session that probably will revolve around the question of building collective security in Southeast Asia.

The special session was called, committee officials said, at the mutual request of the secretary and the congressional group, as has been done in the past. Dulles already has met twice with congressional leaders since returning from the Geneva Conference.

The House Committee would be a good starting point for what appears to be an attempt by Dulles to win strong and clear congressional backing for his United Front plan.

Committee Wants Pacific NATO

The committee has called repeatedly for the creation of a Pacific equivalent of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization and has written this recommendation into past foreign aid bills.

Congress in general appears willing to support the idea of equipping and training more Asian forces, although many key members remain skeptical that this can be done in the immediate future.

Capitol Hill specialists in Asian affairs were warning as recently as a few months ago that "you'll never get these nations together—they distrust each other too much."

Many Complications

Dulles acknowledged in a Friday night radio-TV broadcast that there are many complications in trying to weld together Asian and European nations to stop further Communist inroads in Southeast Asia.

In Indochina, as Dulles said, non-Communist forces need definite assurances of full independence from the French before they will show sufficient spirit to build a fighting force. Then they will need long training before a competent, self-contained army will be possible. But there are grave doubts that, regardless of the outcome at Geneva, the French can be persuaded to continue fighting for territory whose control they would have to give up.

New Security
Division Set Up
By White House

WASHINGTON, May 9 (AP)—The White House today announced the creation of a new Division of Internal Security in the Justice Department, designed to speed the prosecution of spies and other subversive elements.

President Eisenhower tomorrow will nominate William F. Tompkins of Maplewood, N. J., as an assistant attorney general in charge of the new unit, which presumably will handle all cases dealing with espionage, treason, sabotage, infiltration of defense plants, loyalty of federal employees, and kindred matters.

Officials said the new division will be carved out of the present Criminal Division, headed by Asst. Atty. Gen. Warren Oilier III. The effect will be, they said, to "centralize and fix responsibility" in the department for the handling of subversive activities.

The new division will take over prosecution of cases under the Smith Act, which makes it a crime to conspire to teach and advocate the overthrow of the government by force, and of cases before the subversive Activities Control Board which is trying to compel the registration of Communist-front organizations.

Four Of Wedding Party
Killed In Explosion

COLOGNE, Germany, May 9 (AP)—A wedding party ended in tragedy when four people were killed and eight others seriously injured in a heavy explosion which destroyed a three-story apartment building late today.

Police and firemen using power shovels worked feverishly on the blast site recovering bodies and injured. Officials said it was feared four others still were trapped in the debris.

All dead and injured belonged to the wedding party, police said. The explosion, officials said, appeared to have been caused by a defective gas stove.

Operators' Strike Halts Bus,
Trolley Service At Pittsburgh

PITTSBURGH, May 9 (AP)—Trolley and bus operators of Pittsburgh's main transit system struck at dawn today for higher pay, paralyzing mass transportation in the nation's 12th largest city—steel center of the world.

Transportation experts said it may turn out to be the most crippling transit walkout in the city's history.

Service on most lines of the Pittsburgh Railways Co. came to a halt promptly at 4 a.m. (EST) as scheduled. A company official said a few operators finished runs later. Only about 50 trolleys were operating at the time and there was little inconvenience to the public. No buses were running.

Some 2,700 members of Division 85, AFL Amalgamated Assn. of Street, Electric Railway and Motor Coach Employees, are involved in the strike—first mass transportation walkout by operating employees in the steel city since 1924.

Headed by Mayor David L. Lawrence, a volunteer mediation panel composed of business and labor leaders conferred with union and company officials nearly seven hours in an effort to win a postponement. Federal and state mediators also joined in the parley.

But these feverish last-minute peace efforts proved of no avail as neither side budged from its position.

However, as the meeting adjourned some 2½ hours before the start of the strike, union and management officials agreed—at the request of Mayor Lawrence—to get together again at 1 p.m. (EST).

Pittsburgh Railways operates all the city's trolleys and many of its buses. More than a dozen small bus firms provide additional service—but on a limited scale.

An average of 200,000 workers ride to and from their jobs each day on the company's street cars and buses. Thousands of other residents depend on the system for shopping trips.

Mother Hears From POW

Tennessee said he wrote the letter after attending church. No mention was made of any of the other 21 Americans who refused repatriation, but Tennessee used the term "we" when referring to the impending work.

Mrs. Howe, 43, flew to Japan last Dec. 9 in a dramatic but futile attempt to win young Tennessee back from the Communists.

She got as far as Tokyo, where the United Nations Command forbade her to go to Korea. She returned home to spend Christmas with the family.

A written appeal at the time for Tennessee to come home was answered by a bitter, "I have made up my mind and I am not going."

Mrs. Howe said on her return that she would be happy to receive her son if he ever chose to come home. These are things a mother would

Smith Urges
United Action
To Stop RedsGeneva Conference
Appears Stalemate
On Korea, Indochina

GENEVA, May 9 (AP)—The United States today called anew for collective action by the free world to stem the surging tide of communism in Southeast Asia. The Geneva Conference appeared stalemate on both Korea and Indochina.

Walter Bedell Smith, undersecretary of state and chief of the American delegation here, emphasized Washington's desire for Western unity in a formal statement summing up his impressions after a week's work.

The Indochina talks between East and West seemed stalled by Soviet, Red Chinese and Vietminh demands for a voice for "governments" in Laos and Cambodia which France has described as "phantom" regimes. The Korea talks were equally snagged on conflicting plans for elections.

"We in America," said Smith, "see clearly that our own future, our own prospects of remaining at peace, are directly related to a basic principle—collective security. . . . The significance of Korea and Indochina is worldwide. Powerful forces are behind the complex influences that make these two areas the focus of potential war."

Reds Forced Dulles To Act

Smith said Secretary of State John Foster Dulles' plans for a Southeast Asia security pact were forced upon the U.S. by Communist offensives.

"We stand prepared to pledge our resources to the constructive purposes of peace," Smith said. "We shall be compelled to build more alliances for defensive security only if there is a continuing menace to our national safety and to the safety of all the nations whose interests are bound together with ours in the common objectives of peace and freedom."

In speaking of the Geneva Conference, the American diplomat said "we are here to prevent the spread of communism in Southeast Asia. We are here to bring closer together the free nations of the world."

France Offers Plan

Americans leaders, meanwhile, carefully avoided further comment on the plan for a supervised cessation of hostilities, followed by internationally controlled elections, presented to the Indochina conference yesterday by French Foreign Minister Georges Bidault as a solution to the seven-year-long war in the former French colony.

American reticence was believed linked to the attitude of Vietnamese officials who were reported to oppose sections of the Bidault plan on the ground that it opens door to a partition of Viet Nam with the Communist-led rebels.

Vietnamese here repeatedly stated their opposition to partition. Bidault himself in presenting his plan stressed the "unity, territorial integrity and independence" of Viet Nam, but also called for the assembly of Vietnamese troops, as well as French Union troops, in certain unmentioned armistice areas. The Vietminh would thus presumably continue to hold areas of Indochina while East and West attempted to hammer out a political settlement—something which might never be achieved.

Demo Boss Sees
Dulles Replaced

WASHINGTON, May 9 (AP)—Stephen A. Mitchell, Democratic national chairman, said today the Eisenhower administration has so many foreign policy spokesmen the American people are confused. He predicted that by the end of this year Secretary of State Dulles will be replaced.

To this Republican National Chairman Leonard Hall responded: "Oh, no."

The exchange came during an NBC TV debate ("American Forum of the Air") in which Hall and Mitchell were quizzed by a panel of Democratic and Republican senators and House members.

The question of Dulles' future was not developed. But at another point in the debate, Hall said the main accomplishment of the Eisenhower administration was to recognize communism "as a world menace." He said the Democratic administrations had failed to do this and as a result China was lost to the Reds.

If the Franklin D. Roosevelt and Truman administrations had recognized this menace, Hall said, "we would not be talking about" the threat to Indochina today.

Showdown At Hand On Move To Limit Hearing Testimony

Democrats, Army Ready To Oppose Republican Plan

WASHINGTON, May 9 (AP)—The McCarthy-Army hearings go into their 13th day tomorrow with a showdown imminent on a new Republican move to cut them short.

Sen. Dirksen (R-Ill.) is ready to ask a vote in the Senate Investigations subcommittee on his proposal that further public testimony in the bitter, nationally televised controversy be limited to the two main antagonists—Secretary of the Army Stevens and Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis.).

Mother Hears From POW Son Who Chose Communism

ALDEN, Minn., May 9 (AP)—Letters from her prisoner of war son who chose communism instead of repatriation brightened Mother's Day for Mrs. Portia Howe.

A letter from Pfc. Richard R. Tenneson, dated March 28 and postmarked Tiyyuan, China, arrived at the Howe farm Saturday. Another, somewhat shorter note from Tiyyuan was delivered to Mrs. Howe's parents, Mr. and Mrs. John W. Jensen, Clark's Grove, Minn., about the same time.

In his letter to his mother, Tenneson said he was in good health. He said he was resting and would go to work shortly. Just where he had been since January, the last time Mrs. Howe heard from him, was not mentioned, nor did Tenneson say when he would write again.

"There was no indication in his letter," said Mrs. Howe, "as to how he is being housed or fed. These are things a mother would like to know." Still, cheerful and pleased with this latest contact, she said, "It makes this a much nicer Mother's Day."

Tenneson said he wrote the letter after attending church. No mention was made of any of the other 21 Americans who refused repatriation, but Tenneson used the term "we" when referring to the impending work.

Mrs. Howe, 43, flew to Japan last Dec. 9 in a dramatic but futile attempt to win young Tenneson back from the Communists.

She got as far as Tokyo, where the United Nations Command forbade her to go to Korea. She returned home to spend Christmas with the family.

A written appeal at the time for Tenneson to come home was answered by a bitter, "I have made up my mind and I am not going."

Mrs. Howe said on her return that she would be happy to receive her son if he ever chose to come home.

Smith Urges United Action To Stop Reds

Geneva Conference Appears Stalemated On Korea, Indochina

GENEVA, May 9 (AP)—The United States today called anew for collective action by the free world to stem the surging tide of communism in Southeast Asia. The Geneva Conference appeared stalemated on both Korea and Indochina.

Walter Bedell Smith, undersecretary of state and chief of the American delegation here, emphasized Washington's desire for Western unity in a formal statement summing up his impressions after a week's work.

The Indochina talks between East and West seemed stalled by Soviet, Red Chinese and Vietnamese demands for a voice for "governments" in Laos and Cambodia which France has described as "phantom" regimes. The Korea talks were equally snagged on conflicting plans for elections.

"We in America," said Smith, "see clearly that our own future, our own prospects of remaining at peace, are directly related to a basic principle—collective security. . . . The significance of Korea and Indochina is worldwide. Powerful forces are behind the complex influences that make these two areas the focus of potential war."

Smith said Secretary of State John Foster Dulles' plans for a Southeast Asia security pact were forced upon the U.S. by Communist offensives.

"We stand prepared to pledge our resources to the constructive purposes of peace," Smith said. "We shall be compelled to build more alliances for defensive security only if there is a continuing menace to our national safety and to the safety of all the nations whose interests are bound together with ours in the common objectives of peace and freedom."

In speaking of the Geneva Conference, the American diplomat said "we are here to prevent the spread of communism in Southeast Asia. We are here to bring closer together the free nations of the world."

France Offers Plan

Americans leaders, meanwhile, carefully avoided further comment on the plan for a supervised cessation of hostilities, followed by internationally controlled elections, presented to the Indochina conference yesterday by French Foreign Minister Georges Bidault as a solution to the seven-year-long war in the former French colony.

American reticence was believed linked to the attitude of Vietnamese officials who were reported to oppose sections of the Bidault plan on the ground that it opens door to a partition of Viet Nam with the Communist-led rebels.

Vietnamese here repeatedly stated their opposition to partition. Bidault himself in presenting his plan stressed the "unity, territorial integrity and independence" of Viet Nam, but also called for the assembly of Vietnamese troops, as well as French Union troops, in certain unmentioned armistice areas. The Vietnamese would thus presumably continue to hold areas of Indochina while East and West attempted to hammer out a political settlement—something which might never be achieved.

Demo Boss Sees Dulles Replaced

WASHINGTON, May 9 (AP)—Stephen A. Mitchell, Democratic national chairman, said today the Eisenhower administration has so many foreign policy spokesmen the American people are confused. He predicted that by the end of this year Secretary of State Dulles will be replaced.

To this Republican National Chairman Leonard Hall responded: "Oh, no."

The exchange came during an NBC TV debate ("American Forum of the Air") in which Hall and Mitchell were quizzed by a panel of Democratic and Republican senators and House members.

The question of Dulles' future was not developed. But at another point in the debate, Hall said the main accomplishment of the Eisenhower administration was to recognize communism "as a world menace." He said the Democratic administrations had failed to do this and as a result China was lost to the Reds.

If the Franklin D. Roosevelt and Truman administrations had recognized this menace, Hall said, "we would not be talking about" the threat to Indochina today.

No Plans For UMW To Join AFL Or CIO, Lewis Declares

WASHINGTON, May 9 (AP)—John L. Lewis, United Mine Workers president, said today he sees no immediate prospect of his union rejoining either the AFL or the CIO but this doesn't prevent his getting together with leaders of those groups on specific objectives.

His recent meeting with CIO and AFL representatives, Lewis said, was not necessarily an indication of "bigger things" in labor unity. He added it might "possibly" be such an indication and "probably" was so on specific problems.

"The mine chief, questioned on the NBC-TV show 'Meet the Press,' had this to say of the get-together:

"It means the present leadership of neither the CIO nor the AFL is meeting the requirements of organized labor in protecting the interests of their vast numbers."

"It's obvious that labor is badly organized into respective segments and that the collective strength of labor cannot be exercised on any given matter."

"Lewis said the fault in this 'lies with the leadership of American labor, the rivalries between them, the political combinations that exist.' He charged that some labor

Bevan Says U.S. Tries To Get Britain In War

ABERTYSSWG, Wales, May 9 (AP)—Aneurin Bevan, left wing Laborite and bitter critic of American foreign policy, tonight accused the United States of trying to get Britain involved in a war in Indochina.

"I wanted to make it quite clear that we were not prepared for a single British soldier to risk his life for French imperialism in Indochina. We think it is a tragedy of the first order that so many fine Frenchmen have lost their lives uselessly in that campaign."

Bevan told a political meeting here. "If France and Great Britain and the United States want these struggles for national independence should be granted in the early stages of the struggle," he added.

Polio Viruses Destroy Cancer

BALTIMORE, May 9 (AP)—Scientists working here and at the University of Minnesota have discovered human polio viruses multiply fast and completely destroy at least two types of human cancer tissue.

The importance of the tests, made in test tubes, is greater in the search for a polio cure than in the battle against cancer, according to the American Cancer Society which disclosed the experiments.

The work was done jointly by a group at the Johns Hopkins Medical Institutions in Baltimore headed by Dr. George O. Gey and another at the University of Minnesota headed by Dr. William F. Scherer and Jerome T. Sylverson. They showed a cancer-embedded polio virus multiplied from 100 to a million viruses in two or three days and completely destroyed the cancer in which they were cultured within 12 to 120 hours.

The scientists also found they could stop the multiplication of the polio virus easily by introducing polio serum antibodies into the test tubes.

This all occurred in test tubes, on a strain of cancer Dr. Gey has been growing at Hopkins for three years. There is nothing to indicate the same thing might happen in the human body.

Elderly Twin Sisters Meet Cousin Dwight

FREDERICKSBURG, Va., May 9 (AP)—Two 85-year-old twin sisters met their distinguished distant cousin, Dwight D. Eisenhower, for the first time today.

Mrs. Julia Link Wine of Mt. Sidney, Va., where the President's mother was born, and Mrs. Martha Link Quick of Staunton, Va., were presented to the President when he stopped here to place a wreath on the grave of Mary Ball Washington, the first president's mother.

What did they chat about with Mr. Eisenhower?

"I really don't remember what he said," said Mrs. Quick. "I was just so scared."

Penal Problems Still Unsolved, McKeldin Says

BALTIMORE, May 9 (AP)—Maryland has improved its penal institutions, but it still has much to learn and do to completely solve the problem, Gov. McKeldin said today.

In a speech over a local radio station, the governor said changes in administration, new construction and revamping of the parole system have put the State nearer a solution.

He said that the administrative setup of the Department of Correction has been changed "to bring the actual, on-the-job administration of our penal institutions closer to the problems."

"There will be some relief in overcrowding and more opportunity for special attention to special cases when the new Patuxent institution for defective delinquents is opened in July," he said.

Studies now are being made to determine what prisoners from other penal establishments, shall be transferred to this new institution.

He said a new wing being built at the House of Correction at Jessup also will help relieve the overcrowding, as will a new building at the Reformatory for Women, to be operated as an adjunct to the Patuxent institution.

Another project will be replacement of the antiquated hospital at the penitentiary, he said.

McKeldin defended the state's parole system, which went into operation last year when a board was formed to head the department.

He said it is better to release prisoners under supervision than to let them serve their terms and be released completely free.

Wedding Bells Ring Half Century Late

WASHINGTON, May 9 (AP)—Childhood sweethearts who parted after a quarrel 50 years ago were wed here today.

Principals were Clarence Onyun, 72, Washington, and his bride, Mrs. Jennie Richards, 72, who flew here from Detroit for the ceremony.

The two grew up together in Peoria, Ill., plighted their troth when they were 18 but quarreled and went their separate ways.

Onyun, a semi-retired hotel clerk, recalled that they had a spat after he made a trip to Chicago and was late calling for her to take her to church.

Last Christmas Onyun, who has lived alone the past 10 years, wrote Mrs. Richards, discovered she also had been alone for several years, continued the correspondence and won her.

Tragic Mother's Day For Columbus Family

COLUMBUS, Ohio, May 9 (AP)—Two small children, accompanied by their father, returned home from a Mother's Day church service today to find their mother's body hanging in the basement. Acting Coroner Carl E. Tetrick ruled the death a suicide.

Leo Walker, 32, told police his wife, Thelma, 31, had stayed home to take care of their 1-year-old son. On a bedroom dresser police said Walker found a pencilled note in which Mrs. Walker said she loved her family but thought they would "be better off without me."

Missing Woman's Body Found In Quarry Pool

PILOT, Md., May 9 (AP)—The body of Mrs. Orpha E. Farmer, 46, was recovered from a 15-foot deep quarry pool today about a mile and a half from her Cecil County home here.

The discovery was made by a party of searchers who had been looking for Mrs. Farmer since she left her home Saturday morning about 10 a.m.

She lived with her husband, Howard E. Farmer, who survives.

Hall Will Seek Free Agent Role For McCarthy

WASHINGTON, May 9 (AP)—GOP National Chairman Leonard W. Hall may ask the Republican party's executive committee here this week to back his decision cutting Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis.) loose as a free agent in this year's campaign.

Hall has called the 17-member group into session Friday to lay before them preliminary plans for a drive to retain control of Congress—a drive which would star President Eisenhower and Vice President Nixon as campaign speakers.

Eisenhower has said he won't campaign locally for candidates, but he is expected to make some speeches at critical points. Nixon is keeping September and October open for assignments from the GOP National Committee.

Hall has ruled the National Committee will make no assignments for McCarthy stops on the campaign trail, but merely will pass on to the senator specific requests it receives for appearances by him.

This apparently reflects the White House attitude toward McCarthy, who is involved in a dispute with Secretary of the Army Stevens. President Eisenhower has said the public hearings in this row are lowering American prestige abroad.

While Hall's personally-picked executive committee is expected to support his decision, the party leadership has discovered local demands for McCarthy are likely to keep the Wisconsin senator going full blast during the campaign, if he chooses to accept them.

Among other appearances, he is expected to be speaker at a June celebration in Ripon, Wis., of the Republican party's centennial.

McCarthy told a reporter he has hundreds of requests for speaking appearances all over the country. He said he had been asked by several GOP colleagues to campaign for them in their states.

Mahoney Reaches Half-Way Mark In Primary Campaign

[By The Associated Press]

George P. Mahoney was at the half-way mark today in his campaign for the Democratic nomination for governor and used the occasion to outline his stand on major state problems.

In the 50th of a promised 100 statements on his beliefs, Mahoney:

1. Advocated a "full-time State Roads Commission" whose members would have no outside business interests.

2. Called for a budget that would provide for the return each year or further division of individual state agency surpluses.

3. Said there was a need for overhauling the structure of the State government with "lines of command and division of responsibility" clearly defined.

4. Saw a need for appointments to posts in conservation and management of natural resources "on a basis of ability and practical experience" instead of making "political plums" of such jobs.

5. And said he was in "complete sympathy" with expressed aims of educators demanding adequate classrooms and competent teachers for the "great flood of children soon to enter our public schools."

He added, however, a financing plan for an educational program "must await the findings of three state commissions making studies in this area."

Mahoney opposes former University of Maryland president H.C. Byrd in the June 28 primaries.

On the Republican side, Temus (Tim) Bright who has invested $270 in a filing fee for the gubernatorial nomination, brought a new slant into the political picture.

Bright said he favors more industry and less birth control in the state.

If elected, Bright promised, marriage licenses would be free. He said he wants "hundreds of thousands of new babies... to go along with my advanced (prosperity) program."

The Bright "prosperity program" envisions a $10 tax on each Maryland worker with the money going for the erection of industrial plants in the state.

In other weekend developments, House Speaker Joseph Martin (R-Mass.) urged the election of a Republican congress as he spoke to a party dinner at Elkhart.

He said the Eisenhower program "will not be given a fair chance of success unless there is a Republican majority in both the House and the Senate."

And in Baltimore, the U.S. attorney for Maryland, George Cochran Doub, found nothing wrong with the candidacy of William P. Bolton who is running for congressman from the Second District.

Bolton's opponent in the Democratic primary race, Gately Flynn, had suggested Bolton may have violated the Hatch Act which prevents government employees from running for office. But Doub ruled that the fact Bolton filed while still civil defense head for Baltimore County in no way jeopardized his position as a candidate.

The New York Stock Exchange was organized in 1792.

New Organization Installs Officers At Fort Cumberland

Officers of Wamba Caravan 89, Order of The Alhambra, a newly organized group in Cumberland, were installed yesterday afternoon in the ballroom of the Fort Cumberland Hotel.

The 25 charter members were initiated in February at the Alcazar in Baltimore.

Those installed were Joseph H. Love, grand commander; Peter J. Carpentel, vice grand commander; Stanley R. Fretwell, grand scribe; Michael F. McDade, scribe of the exchequer; Alex J. Schute, grand chamberlain; Sylvester A. Shircliff, master of the oasis; W. Arnold Gunther, historiographer; Eugene J. McGreevy, master of the wardrobe; DeSales F. McDade, captain of the body guard; J. Arthur McDade, sentinel of the tower, and Robert H. Frame, sentinel of the desert.

Other charter members are Frank B. Altice, Thomas L. Keech, Dr. Leo H. Ley Jr., Joseph E. Divico, Francis K. Hiner, William Connell Jr., Thomas E. Simon, Wilbert E. Firle, Joseph M. Coulehan, William F. Baker, Joseph A. Soethe, Ralph Sell, Joseph Sirna, and Patrick R. Farrell.

The primary purpose of the order is the preservation, commemoration and marking of Catholic historical places, persons or events.

Congressmen Urge Faster Work On U.S. Route 40

The executive board and publicity committee of the Route 40 Association will meet today at 7:30 p. m. in Malampy's Bottling Works, Williams Street, to discuss the group's recent conference concerning National Highway improvement with U. S. Senator J. Glenn Beall and Rep. DeWitt S. Hyde.

At the meeting, the representatives of the association outlined to the congressmen "the vital importance of having immediate improvements made to Route 40 between Cumberland and Hancock and from Frostburg to Keyser Ridge."

They brought out that the National Highway is designated a Civil Defense evacuation highway from metropolitan areas east of here and, in its present condition, would not serve the purpose effectively.

The Route 40 delegation pointed out that the improvement of this segment of the road would, in addition, result in great economic benefit not only to Cumberland but to all of Western Maryland.

The representatives of the organization declared that improvements should be made in the immediate future and not over 12 years as proposed in the State Road Commission's program.

Senator Beall called the attention of the group to the fact that the federal government has increased the federal funds available for highways in Maryland this year.

Another matter of local interest brought out in the conference concerned the proposed improvements to be made to Route 40 in Pennsylvania.

It is understood, the delegation stated, that Governor Fine and the Pennsylvania State Roads Commission are working on plans for the immediate relocation and modernization of Route 40 over Summit Mountain.

At the close of the meeting, Senator Beall and Rep. Hyde wrote Russell H. McCain, chairman of the Maryland State Roads Commission, asking that top priority be given to the improvements to Route 40 in Western Maryland.

The congressmen pointed to the increase in business, economic and Civil Defense benefits that would result from the work.

Representing the association at the meeting were Thomas R. Wolford, vice president; Elden Shipway, executive committeeman, and William A. Wilson, secretary. Business commitments made it unable for the president, Edward Wolfe, to attend.

Edwards Seeks Re-election As Commissioner

William J. Edwards, commissioner of water and electric light, announced his candidacy for re-election over the weekend.

By entering the race, Commissioner Edwards became the third of the four incumbent councilmen to announce for re-election. William V. Keegan, commissioner of finance, and John J. Long, commissioner of police and fire, announced last week. Mrs. Lucile W. Roeder, commissioner of streets and public property, has said she will be seeking office this year, but has not said which office she will run for. Mayor Roy W. Eves will be in the running for mayor, but is so far unopposed.

Edwards said:

"In again seeking re-election to the City Council, I wish to first thank my many friends who have given me their support at the polls in the past. I have had the good fortune of serving in the office of Commissioner of Water and Light for a number of years. I feel that today the greatest single asset which our splendid city has is its water supply. With due humility I would like to claim responsibility for some of its development."

"In 1937 when I was first appointed Water Commissioner the entire system was in a bad state of disrepair and was also financially on the rocks. With the support of the Council I introduced a new billing and collection system which within a year brought the department out of the red and into the black."

"There have been no increases in water rates in over 20 years. During my supervision of the Department some of the accomplishments have included the construction of an attractive warehouse on Willowbrook Road, the cross-town water line which increased the facilities to West Cumberland and the Celanese Plant, our great industrial users. My tenure in office also witnessed the construction of the Auxiliary Water Line to Lake Gordon, which although it cost about one million dollars, gave us a dual insurance against breakdowns in our water lines and is an integral part of a system which makes our water system a real inducement to industry. I have actively urged, and seen accomplished, improvements to Lake Gordon which have within the last year increased our potential supply of filtered water from 12 million gallons to around 18 million gallons a day and the department has already commenced a study of projected needs for the proposed Pittsburgh Plate Glass Plant."

"During my past administration, in addition to completing improvements to the plant facilities at Lake Gordon, we have also brought increased water pressure to North End, giving those residents better water service and fire protection and opening up a large new section for residential development."

"Our Department is in good financial shape, we have made many capital expenditures out of our past war construction fund and have accomplished tangible improvements within our budgetary allowance."

"The recent drought which has affected the entire nation finds us in much better condition than most cities in the country. Whereas the great metropolis of New York, which boasts of one of the finest water systems in the world, has had to order restaurants not to serve drinking water with meals unless requested, we have had to merely ask our citizens to refrain from hosing porches and lawns."

"I have dwelt on the Water Department because it represents much of my life's work, but I wish before concluding to state that I feel that I have voted soundly and sensibly on major issues which have faced the Council."

"I have had no axe to grind nor greater political goals to foster. I have not sought to attract public attention, except to the extent of doing the best possible job as Commissioner of Water and Light. My desire has been to serve and I trust that I have fulfilled this trust to the people of Cumberland."

Suit Develops Over Plate Glass Parcel

Testimony was taken Saturday morning in Circuit Court in a friendly suit over title to a parcel of property in the North Branch section which is under option to the Pittsburgh Plate Glass Company.

The suit was brought by Rachel Bloss, through her attorney, William C. Walsh, against a number of relatives and others in order to clear up the title to the property.

Associate Judge George Henderson heard the testimony and took the matter under advisement for a decision at a later date.

Annual Cleanup Week Goal Set

Cumberland's annual clean-up, paint-up, fix-up campaign got underway Saturday under auspices of the Cumberland Chamber of Commerce.

The 1954 drive is a project of the Civic Development Committee, headed by C. William Gilchrist. Sub-chairmen are Mrs. Lucile Roeder, commissioner of streets and public property, and H. D. ("Hal") Barber, of Kelly-Springfield Tire Company.

Assisting them are Lewyn C. Davis, public school activities, and Dr. Winter R. Frantz, health activities.

The campaign will extend into several major fronts, manned by volunteers in homes, schools, city departments, and business and industrial establishments.

Guided by the performance record of last year, when a grand total of 35,390 specific clean-up tasks were completed, the committee is seeking to enlarge the scope of its activities.

Emphasis this year is on neighborhood improvements, not only as a matter of community pride, but as a stimulus to business and industry.

The seven-day drive, the committee emphasizes, will be only a prelude to a long-range program of community development. City beautification, it warns, cannot be achieved by a single campaign.

Trash Pickup Schedule

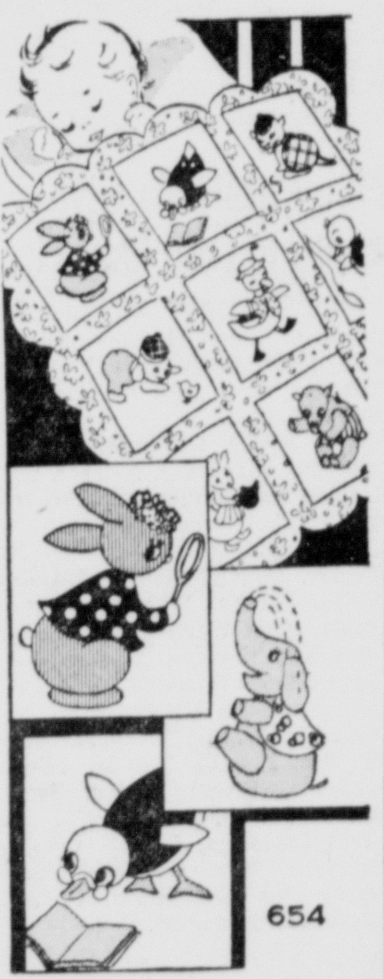

A major phase of the drive is a block-to-block "pick-up" of trash, starting today at 7 a. m. Tomorrow, the schedule calls for collections in the area north of Williams Street to Wills Creek, east side, and the city line north and east.

Collections will be made Tuesday on all streets from Williams Street south, and on Wednesday, the entire west side will be covered.

Lewis Tyree Wins In Damage Action

Principles Of MYF Are Discussed

A program on principles of the Methodist Youth Fellowship featured the meeting of the Murleys Branch MYF, at which the Piney Plains MYF were guests.

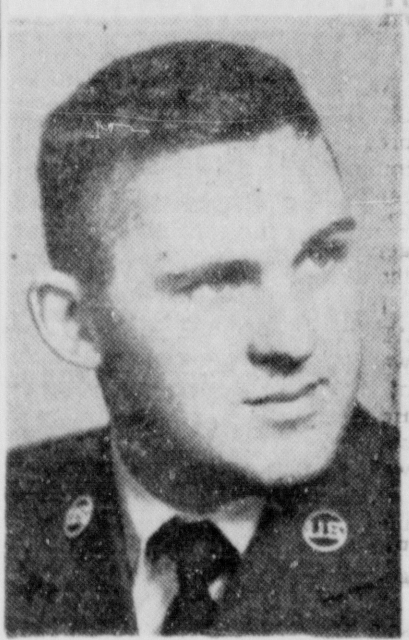

Naomi Heavener led the devotional service. Principles of the organization, the motto, covenant and benediction, were discussed by Helen Heavener. Leah Robinette explained Christian Outreach to new youth groups, explaining organization of MYF. Mrs. Eston Heavener spoke of the sub-district and different program areas.

Naomi and Helen Heavener sang "Let Him In." A Scripture reading was given by Sandra Shipley, prayer was offered by Lois Ann Twigg, and songs were sung by both groups, after which the Lord's Prayer was recited in unison.

A short business session was held with Carl Bennett presiding. Roll call was answered with MYF mottoes. Carl Bennett reported on the council meeting and the rally at Kingsley church was discussed.

Murley's Branch group had 36 members and Mrs. Eston Heavener, counselor, present; and Piney Plains, 36 members and three adults.

Board Approves New Creek Junior High School Plan

KEYSER — The Mineral County Board of Education approved the plans for developing the New Creek Elementary School to a Junior High School by September.

An addition is being erected now and will be completed by the time the school year opens in September. The new addition will be sufficient at this time to furnish relief from Keyser High-School by taking students from that area into the new school.

The board appointed Miss Barbara Jean Taylor, Keyser, as a teacher at the New Creek School. Miss Betty Jean Withrow, Piedmont, a graduate of West Virginia University School of Music, also was appointed. She has not been given a local assignment but will be placed later in the summer.

Keyser To Continue Pool Discussions

KEYSER — Another joint meeting of the Keyser City Council and the Keyser Recreation Board will be held today to discuss matters pertaining to the swimming pool and the disposition of the properties that were donated to the city for a recreation park, but which have been ordered returned to the donors.

This matter was brought up at a meeting of the two bodies last week and the request of one donor that the property be returned, was released by the city and placed in the hands of City Attorney Charles Smith and former City Attorney James H. Swadley, Jr., for investigation.

New Colonialism Is Dangerous Too

Prime ministers of five Asian countries meeting in Colombo were unanimous and emphatic in condemning colonialism as a threat to freedom. All five countries were colonies of European powers during World War II. But not all of the prime ministers were as quick to recognize the new and more dangerous forms of colonialism is beginning to assume.

When it came to condemning the threat to freedom inherent in the expansionist program of communism, disagreements arose and caution suddenly appeared.

There isn't much left of the old form of colonialism, at least in Asia. Of the five powers at the conference, Burma, Ceylon, India and Pakistan were freed by Britain in a calm and friendly fashion. But all five prime ministers are fighting against the past, not the present, in their obsession with the form colonialism took in their countries. They refuse to recognize that dying old-style colonialism is falling of its own weight, while new style colonialism is a greater threat than the old ever was.

Outer Mongolia, Poland, Hungary, Bulgaria, Romania, Czechoslovakia, Lithuania, Latvia and Estonia are colonies of Russia. Russia's "colonial office" is the Cominform. When Yugoslavia refused to be a colony of the Kremlin, the Cominform fought a cold war of threats, economic blockade and attempted infiltration to conquer it.

When Austria and Korea were liberated from the axis, Russia retained control over her zones of occupation and to this day refuses to permit the unification or full independence of either. In similar spirit, she has made one-third of conquered Germany a colony.

In Asia, her agents or those of Red China are at work to overthrow every government that has gained its independence from colonialism. This is the only kind of colonialism that threatens any independent nation today.

An Exciting Birthday

J. Edgar Hoover celebrates today his 30th anniversary as director of the FBI. He is one of the two longest serving bureau chiefs in government. How much he is respected was evidenced last week when his name came up in the McCarthy-Stevens hearings. All sides joined to protect his name and status although they quarrelled about almost everything else.

This man has achieved a unique position in American life, above politics, without advantage to self. He might have developed, during war years, an expansion of his organization both as to powers and personnel that could have grown into a national police force of enormous dimensions. This he avoided, despite encouragement from many sources, on the grounds that policing must remain essentially a local matter and that the Gestapo form of national policing would be a negation of American freedom.

It is, therefore, not surprising that after 37 years in the Department of Justice, chief of the FBI for 30 years, the criticism of both J. Edgar Hoover and the FBI should be so sparse. In a country such as ours, no agency of government should be immune to criticism; no individual in government should be a taboo, undiscussable, unmentionable, beyond debate by the citizens. Critics of the FBI and J. Edgar Hoover's management of that powerful agency of government are entitled to scrutinize the record, to expose their views of that record and to lead in a discussion of its merits. The interesting fact is that they have been so few and that they have made so small an impression on the country.

It is more than likely that objections to the FBI will increase. The new program of the Communist party is for an attack on the FBI. That attack has already begun by indirection, namely, that it is contended that the FBI incorrectly provided the McCarthy Committee with data to which it was not entitled. I have been informed that this is untrue, that there has been no access to FBI files by McCarthy and his investigators. The FBI is a department of the Department of Justice and it is, beyond doubt, to be assumed that Attorney General Herbert Brownell Jr. has checked such reports.

In his unwillingness to develop a personal empire, J. Edgar Hoover has always resisted efforts of friendly members of Congress to make the FBI an independent agency of government. It has remained the investigative arm of the Department of Justice, responsible to the attorney general for its authority and supervision. Hoover, as chief, has served under 11 Attorneys General, during both Republican and Democratic administrations.

Not all attorneys general have been enthusiasts for the bureau or have cooperated with it. It is to be recalled that the FBI was eliminated from screening and espionage in relation to the early atomic projects, not being permitted to work in this field until 1947. While Klaus Fuchs was working at Los Alamos, the FBI was not screening personnel there, but as soon as the bureau found information that the secrets of the atom bomb were loose, it investigated and put the finger on Klaus Fuchs. It provided the material which resulted in the conviction of Julius and Ethel Rosenberg.

During recent years, the FBI has been forced by the course of events to devote itself to espionage and subversion. These are unusual conditions in American life and involve comparatively few persons. Nevertheless, a single spy, operating in a sensitive area, can accomplish as much damage as a regiment. Klaus Fuchs, working with the small and tight Rosenberg cell, altered our historic position. Such a person as Michael Greenberg, who now lives outside this country, could, when stationed in the White House, damage this country more effectively than a large organization.

Under the Eisenhower administration, the difficult task of screening employees of the government has fallen upon the FBI, involving this organization in detailed operations which often tax its physical abilities. This is being accomplished with such effectiveness that it ought to be possible in due course to say that no subversive or security risks continue to be employed in government. This may be J. Edgar Hoover's greatest contribution to our people.

Come On, Boy!

Two Rules Control Administration Policy On Indochina

By Joseph And Stewart Alsop

WASHINGTON: These weeks of the crisis of decision about Indochina have thrown a lot of light on the peculiar congressional relations of the Eisenhower administration.

A minor but typical incident arose from the French need for more American Air Force mechanics to service their planes at the Indochinese airfields. Long before, after much heart-searching, the administration assigned a little more than 200 mechanics of the Far East Air Force to this duty in the Indochina battle zone. This action, first reported in this space, caused much congressional concern.

A fortnight or so ago, the word came that the 200 mechanics were not nearly enough to keep all the French bombers and transports in the air. The need was for about twice as many, or the same number the French had originally asked for. Before dealing with this problem, administration representatives conferred with bipartisan groups, of House and Senate leaders.

According to reports, the senators opposed sending any further Americans in uniform to Indochina. For the House, however, doughty Minority Leader Sam Rayburn seems to have voiced the general view, when he said that there was no difference in principle between 200 American mechanics and 400 American mechanics. On this ground, Rayburn argued that the administration ought to do whatever seemed advisable.

Rayburn's logic was not easy to refute but his advice was rejected. Despite its negative ending, the episode has special interest. It strikingly illustrates the extreme deference which the Eisenhower administration has been paying to congressional opinions. It shows, particularly, how the present time of danger has driven the administration to revive the old system of bipartisan consultations.

On the day that President Eisenhower took over the White House, there was no serious bipartisan consultation on foreign policy until the Indochina crisis began. But as soon as the administration learned that we could not just luck through in Indochina, rather continuous consultations began to be held. The Senate leaders, Knowland, Ferguson, Wiley and Saltonstall, and Lyndon Johnston, Russell and George, have been called in most often.

From these discussions with the congressional leaders, have emerged the two rules that have thus far controlled the administration's handling of the crisis. Rule one is that the President will not act without asking for congressional authorization. Rule two is that this country will not attempt armed intervention in Indochina except in the context of the "united action" of our allies.

The second rule has proved particularly significant. On the one hand, anyone familiar with the international picture knows that neither the British nor any other Western ally has large troop contingents available to be sent to Indochina. The "united action" that the senators have so strongly insisted upon will always be a token affair, if it ever materializes at all.

On the other hand, the highest American policy makers concluded about a fortnight ago that we ought to intervene in Indochina immediately, to give air aid to the now fallen Dien Bien Phu garrison. This, they considered was vital to American interests. But when the project was put up to the British, they rejected it. Thus

Baering Down On The News

By Arthur "Bugs" Baer

One good motive for television and radio is they have relegated Author's Readings to the limbo of the miscellaneous.

Author's Readings were punitive expeditions cooked up by Thackeray and Dickens to make people pay twice for what they didn't understand once.

They were followed by Oscar Wilde who demanded strict silence from the audience. Finally the audience demanded it from Oscar.

Author's Readings were taken over in toto by elderly lady poets at the Tuesday Afternoon Get-Togethers. The poetess was an elderly lady with protruding bridge-work.

When she spoke she forced each word between her teeth like a bad boy shoving a cat through a picket fence.

She gazed through tri-focals at her poems and her audience. They made the type bigger. And the audience larger.

If she heard a testimonial snore she was Jennie-on-the-Spot. With the quickness of a flipped card she switched to a lullaby.

She dominated her group of the Maintenance Branch of the Ladies Auxiliary of the Aunts of Heroic Nephews with an ironing hand.

She was generous with her poetry and was always good for an encore. She hung up a record at the Kansas City Chatauque by taking six bows to hisses mixed with congratulatory asthma.

Her place in entertainment has been taken by commercials, quiz panels and herring-boning.

We were too young to appreciate it. And never did get old enough.

Coxsackie Virus Is Source Of At Least Two Diseases

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

In 1948, a group of bacteriologists detected a new virus in the discharges of two polio patients. They may have thought they had found the long sought cause of polio, more so when the virus produced paralysis after it was injected into mice. The micro-organism was called Coxsackie, after the New York village where the work was done. Subsequent results proved that the discovery of this research team was a chance find, and we now know the Cox-sackie virus is not responsible for infantile paralysis.

Two years later, for example, similar studies were made on 416 specimens during a polio epidemic and the C virus was recovered in only three patients. This study again demonstrates why scientists are loath to make too many claims from single experiments and prefer to use the test of time.

The work of Drs. G. Dalldorf and G. M. Sickles was not in vain, however, because the Coxsackie virus proved to be the source of at least two diseases, perhaps more. The organism is tough and does not yield to penicillin or other antibiotic. It has been found all over the world and appears most frequently during the summer months.

Herpangina is one of the Coxsackie virus diseases. This little known summer complaint is most prevalent in children and begins abruptly with fever, weakness, loss of appetite, and vomiting; occasionally it is ushered in with a convulsion. Headache and abdominal pain also are present and the throat becomes sore.

At this stage, the condition is indistinguishable from an ordinary cold or attack of flu. But the tell-tale evidence lies hidden in the mouth where characteristic small blisters form, surrounded by a red halo, and when the blisters rupture, tiny ulcers become apparent. These lesions resemble cold sores (herpes simplex) and for this reason the prefix "herp" is used in the name of the ailment. Herpangina is not serious and the ulcers usually disappear within 48 hours but the malady is contagious and may be overlooked because of its mild nature.

Pleurodynia is the second disease traceable to the Coxsackie virus. In this disorder, there are the usual signs of infection along with pleurisy-like pain in the re-

McCarthy Investigates John G. Adams On Blood Plasma Bought From Swedes

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON — Joe McCarthy and his aides have been chortling with glee over a piece of dynamite they are holding in reserve to spring on Army Counselor John G. Adams when he gets on the witness stand.

At first blush it might look as if McCarthy had something. On second blush his dynamite looks slightly damp. Anyway, here are the facts and the public can judge for itself.

The alleged Army scandal pertains to blood plasma and the purchase of substitute blood plasma from the Swedes.

Since blood plasma is all-important in case of atomic attack, and since real blood plasma is limited, the Army plans to stockpile a huge quantity of a new substitute, Dextran blood plasma expander—in fact, two pints for every man, woman and child in the U.S.A. It will be stored ready for war.

However, a Swedish firm, the Pharmacia Company, has filed patent claims on dextran and demands a royalty from the United States. With a goal of two pints for every person, this obviously would run into a lot of money, and it was at this point that Army Counselor John G. Adams stepped into the picture. It's also why McCarthy has been rubbing his hands with glee.

Adams' Compromise

For the Justice Department has declared Pharmacia's patents invalid, and though Pharmacia immediately appealed to the courts, Adams, as Army counselor, had to decide whether to accept the Justice Department's word and get involved in a long legal battle, or make a compromise with Pharmacia.

So he hired a New York lawyer, Frank A. Bowers, as special legal adviser to make a study of the whole thing.

Deal With Swedes

Bowers finally recommended a compromise by which the Army would pay Pharmacia 10 cents a pound royalty for dextran up to 100,000 pounds a year, with five cents a pound royalty over 100,000. "A payment, not royalty, of a minimum of $100,000 for each year," was the exact language of Bowers' recommendation. "If the purchases run up to 200,000 pounds, there will be a royalty of five cents per pound on all blood plasma expander purchased or produced by the government."

This would add up to an estimated $17,000,000 over the life of the patent, and the Justice Department raised a howl. They had already ruled that the patent was invalid and there was no obligation to the Swedish company.

However, Counselor Adams backed the compromise. And in an unpublished letter to Secretary of the Army Stevens, April 5, he wrote: "It is recommended that a settlement be sought with Pharmacia, if you concur. I shall prepare the appropriate letter to the Department of Justice outlining the views stated and recommended. . . . Revoke the adjustment act order and negotiate on the basis that the patent is at least of questionable validity. The negotiations would take into consideration that the claimants, Pharmacia, have contributed very valuable information to the field of blood plasma expander."

Wrong Lawyer

It was when this leaked out that Joe McCarthy began chortling. McCarthy aides discovered that Pharmacia's lawyers in New York are Fish, Richardson, and Neave, of which Frank A. Bowers is reportedly a member.

In other words, Counselor Adams, the man McCarthy hates, apparently had played right into McCarthy's hands by appointing as so-called neutral counsel a man who worked for the Swedish firm's law firm.

This column, however, checking on McCarthy's secret impending expose, found that the lawyer working for the Swedish attorneys is "Frank A. Barrows," an entirely different person from Frank A. Bowers, appointed by the Army.

Bowers, when queried by this column, said he had no connection, past or present, with Fish, Richardson and Neave, that his proposed compromise would be cheaper in the end than a long court battle, that the Swedes had helped to develop the blood-plasma patent, so we owed them a moral obligation.

Asked why the Army had picked him as special counsel, he said he had no idea, but supposed it was because he was a patent expert and this case involved patent law.

That's the story of what Senator McCarthy has been secretly preparing to spring on Army counselor John Adams when he takes the witness stand.

HST Refuses Free Car

Harry Truman, onetime ranking member of the Pearson non-admiration society, may be a bit surprised to read this story about him on the week of his 70th birthday. But I hope he won't deny it as he has some stories in the past.

K. T. Keller, chairman of the Chrysler Corporation, told a group at the famed Bohemian Grove in California that he had telephoned the ex-President and told him he wanted him to have a Chrysler car. Mr. Truman replied that he had been thinking about a Chrysler himself.

"What kind of model do you suggest?" he asked.

"Our best model is the Imperial," Keller replied.

"That sound a little too swanky for me. What else do you recommend?"

"Our New Yorker is next," said Keller. "However, Mr. President, I hope you realize that we want you to have this car with our compliments."

Mr. Truman demurred. "I'm a private citizen now," he said. "I don't think I should get any privileges that couldn't come to any other private citizen."

"But we'll get lots of publicity from this car, and we want to give it to you," Keller remonstrated.

"I don't care if you get a million dollars' worth of publicity. The office of President should not be exploited even when I leave it. I'm going to have a Chrysler all right. But I'm going to pay for it."

And he did. This is the car Harry Truman has been driving.

"Is there anyone here," concluded Keller, as he told the story to the Bohemian Club group, "who would have turned down a similar offer?"

Wall Street Conclusions

By Roger W. Babson

NEW YORK CITY—The newspapers are discussing Geneva, London, and Paris in relation to Indochina. It is interesting to note what the leading columnists and the radio-television commentators have to say. But let me pass along the conclusions of a short, narrow alley in New York City—called Wall Street. This little street goes haywire sometimes—but not often.

Present Wall Street Prices

We cannot go by prices alone when the newspapers headline the financial news: "Highest Bond Prices Of The Year," or "Highest Stock Prices Since 1929," or, "Commodities Continue To Advance." For many investors have stocks and bonds which still show them a loss; while some farmers and manufacturers are selling their products below cost. Why this inconsistency?

As I have said before, the high stock prices are caused primarily by the thousands of mutual trust fund salesmen who are selling their funds' shares all over the country. The money received for these investment trust stocks which you buy goes into securities selected by the trusts' managers. Most of this money is placed in a few "blue-chip" nationally known stocks, perhaps in only 65 stocks selected from about 1,500 listed on the New York Stock Exchange. These 65 are used by the newspapers as the Dow-Jones stocks. What is said about these is true—they are very high. The rapidly growing pension funds are also causing present high prices for these 65 popular Wall Street stocks, even though many other stocks are going down.

Another Reason

There, however, is another reason for high prices. Prices are high because Wall Street thinks that we are to direct a "shooting war" against the Chinese and threaten to use atomic bombs. Already we are supplying the

Indochina patriots and French with airplanes, guns, shells, etc., the same as the Chinese are supplying the Communists of Indochina with war material without involving Russia. Our Defense Department argues that, as a last resort, we could also supply the Indochina army with atomic bombs, without involving Russia, or without starting World War III.

Neither Eisenhower nor Wall Street wants a World War III or a long Indochina war. Both dread the use of atomic bombs by either the United States or Russia against the other. But no one wants our foot soldiers involved in another "Korea" fought with our troops. Hence, I believe that we will get the soldiers of Formosa, Korea, the Philippines, Australia, and other bordering nations—directly interested—to do the fighting while we supply the arms.

Believed Possible

If so, it would cause commodity prices to strengthen; it would increase employment, and it should result in a Republican congressional victory this coming November. Under such conditions, Eisenhower could not balance the budget, but does Wall Street really want it balanced? Hence, notwithstanding the very high prices at which the Dow-Jones stocks are now selling, Wall Street is bullish today.

I, therefore, make three forecasts:

(1) That Mr. Eisenhower will not ask Congress for permission to send foot soldiers into Indochina, at least before the November elections.

(2) That the talk of using atomic bombs may so buck up the French and so scare the Chinese that they will all quit.

(3) That, instead of such a negotiated peace making the market go up, as peace should, Wall Street may see its pet 30 Dow-Jones Industrials go down before 1954 ends!

He might have developed, during war years, an expansion of his organization both as to powers and personnel that could have grown into a national police force of enormous dimensions. This he avoided, despite encouragement from many sources, on the grounds that policing must remain essentially a local matter and that the Gestapo form of national policing would be a negation of American freedom.

It is, therefore, not surprising that after 37 years in the Department of Justice, chief of the FBI for 30 years, the criticism of both J. Edgar Hoover and the FBI should be so sparse. In a country such as ours, no agency of government should be immune to criticism; no individual in government should be a taboo, undiscussable, unmentionable, beyond debate by the citizens. Critics of the FBI and J. Edgar Hoover's management of that powerful agency of government are entitled to scrutinize the record, to expose their views of that record and to lead in a discussion of its merits. The interesting fact is that they have been so few and that they have made so small an impression on the country.

It is more than likely that objections to the FBI will increase. The new program of the Communist party is for an attack on the FBI. That attack has already begun by indirection, namely, that it is contended that the FBI incorrectly provided the McCarthy Committee with data to which it was not entitled. I have been informed that this is untrue, that there has been no access to FBI files by McCarthy and his investigators. The FBI is a department of the Department of Justice and it is, beyond doubt, to be assumed that Attorney General Herbert Brownell Jr. has checked such reports.

In his unwillingness to develop a personal empire, J. Edgar Hoover has always resisted efforts of friendly members of Congress to make the FBI an independent agency of government. It has remained the investigative arm of the Department of Justice, responsible to the attorney general for its authority and supervision. Hoover, as chief, has served under 11 attorneys general, during both Republican and Democratic administrations.

Not all attorneys general have been enthusiasts for the bureau or have cooperated with it. It is to be recalled that the FBI was eliminated from screening and espionage in relation to the early atomic projects, not being permitted to work in this field until 1947. While Klaus Fuchs was working at Los Alamos, the FBI was not screening personnel there, but as soon as the bureau found information that the secrets of the atom bomb were loose, it investigated and put the finger on Klaus Fuchs. It provided the material which resulted in the conviction of Julius and Ethel Rosenberg.

During recent years, the FBI has been forced by the course of events to devote itself to espionage and subversion. These are unusual conditions in American life and involve comparatively few persons. Nevertheless, a single spy, operating in a sensitive area, can accomplish as much damage as a regiment. Klaus Fuchs, working with the small and tight Rosenberg cell, altered our historic position. Such a person as Michael Greenberg, who now lives outside this country, could, when stationed in the White House, damage this country more effectively than a large organization.

Under the Eisenhower administration, the difficult task of screening employees of the government has fallen upon the FBI, involving this organization in detailed operations which often tax its physical abilities. This is being accomplished with such effectiveness that it ought to be possible in due course to say that no subversives or security risks continue to be employed in government. This may be J. Edgar Hoover's greatest contribution to our people.

Come On, Boy!

Two Rules Control Administration Policy On Indochina

By Joseph And Stewart Alsop

WASHINGTON: These weeks of the crisis of decision about Indochina have thrown a lot of light on the peculiar congressional relations of the Eisenhower administration.

A minor but typical incident arose from the French need for more American Air Force mechanics to service their planes at the Indochinese airfields. Long before, after much heart-searching, the administration assigned a little more than 200 mechanics of the Far East Air Force to this duty in the Indochina battle zone. This action, first reported in this space, caused much congressional concern.

A fortnight or so ago, the word came that the 200 mechanics were not nearly enough to keep all the French bombers and transports in the air. The need was for about twice as many, or the same number the French had originally asked for. Before dealing with this problem, administration representatives conferred with bipartisan groups, of House and Senate leaders.

According to reports, the senators opposed sending any further Americans in uniform to Indochina. For the House, however, doughty Minority Leader Sam Rayburn seems to have voiced the general view, when he said that there was no difference in principle between 200 American mechanics and 400 American mechanics. On this ground, Rayburn argued that the administration ought to do whatever seemed advisable.

Bipartisan Consultations Revived

Rayburn's logic was not easy to refute but his advice was rejected. Despite its negative ending, the episode has special interest. It strikingly illustrates the extreme deference which the Eisenhower administration has been paying to congressional opinions. It shows, particularly, how the present time of danger has driven the administration to revive the old system of bipartisan consultations.

On the day that President Eisenhower took over the White House, there was no serious bipartisan consultation on foreign policy until the Indochina crisis began. But as soon as the administration learned that we could not just luck through in Indochina, rather continuous consultations began to be held. The Senate leaders, Knowland, Ferguson, Wiley and Saltonstall, and Lyndon Johnston, Russell and George, have been called in most often.

From these discussions with the congressional leaders, have emerged the two rules that have thus far controlled the administration's handling of the crisis. Rule one is that the President will not act without asking for congressional authorization. Rule two is that this country will not attempt armed intervention in Indochina except in the context of the "united action" of our allies.

The second rule has proved particularly significant. On the one hand, anyone familiar with the international picture knows that neither the British nor any other Western ally has large troop contingents available to be sent to Indochina. The "united action" that the senators have so strongly insisted upon will always be a token affair, if it ever materializes at all.

On the other hand, the highest American policy makers concluded about a fortnight ago that we ought to intervene in Indochina immediately, to give air aid to the now fallen Dien Bien Phu garrison. This, they considered was vital to American interests. But when the project was put up to the British, they rejected it. Thus

By Arthur "Bugs" Baer

One good motive for television and radio is they have relegated Author's Readings to the limbo of the miscellaneous.

Author's Readings were punitive expeditions cooked up by Thackeray and Dickens to make people pay twice for what they didn't understand once.

They were followed by Oscar Wilde who demanded strict silence from the audience. Finally the audience demanded it from Oscar.

Author's Readings were taken over in toto by elderly lady poets at the Tuesday Afternoon Get-Togethers. The poetess was an elderly lady with protruding bridge-work.

When she spoke she forced each word between her teeth like a bad boy shoving a cat through a picket fence.

She gazed through tri-focals at her poems and her audience. They made the type bigger. And the audience larger.

If she heard a testimonial snore she was Jennie-on-the-Spot. With the quickness of a flipped card she switched to a lullaby.

She dominated her group of the Maintenance Branch of the Ladies Auxiliary of the Aunts of Heroic Nephews with an ironing hand.

She was generous with her poetry and was always good for an encore. She hung up a record at the Kansas City Chataqua by taking six bows to hisses mixed with congratulatory asthma.

Her place in entertainment has been taken by commercials, quiz panels and herring-boning.

We were too young to appreciate it. And never did get old enough.

Coxsackie Virus Is Source Of At Least Two Diseases

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

Coxsackie virus is not responsible for infantile paralysis.

Two years later, for example, similar studies were made on 416 specimens during a polio epidemic and the C virus was recovered in only three patients. This study again demonstrates why scientists are loath to make too many claims from single experiments and prefer to use the test of time.

The work of Drs. G. Dalldorf and G. M. Sickles was not in vain, however, because the Coxsackie virus proved to be the source of at least two diseases, perhaps more. The organism is tough and does not yield to penicillin or other antibiotic. It has been found all over the world and appears most frequently during the summer months.

Herpangina is one of the Coxsackie virus diseases. This little known summer complaint is most prevalent in children and begins abruptly with fever, weakness, loss of appetite, and vomiting; occasionally it is ushered in with a convulsion. Headache and abdominal pain also are present and the throat becomes sore.

At this stage, the condition is indistinguishable from an ordinary cold or attack of flu. But the tell-tale evidence lies hidden in the mouth where characteristic small blisters form, surrounded by a red halo, and when the blisters rupture, tiny ulcers become apparent. These lesions resemble cold sores (herpes simplex) and for this reason the prefix "herp-" is used in the name of the ailment. Herpangina is not serious and the ulcers usually disappear within 48 hours but the malady is contagious and may be overlooked because of its mild nature.

Pleurodynia is the second disease traceable to the Coxsackie virus. In this disorder, there are the usual signs of infection along with pleurisy-like pain in the re-retreat," the gregarious Fred Allen found it too quiet entirely, and S-O-S-ed friends: "This spot is so dead the tide went out one day last month and never came back."

McCarthy Investigates John G. Adams On Blood Plasma Bought From Swedes

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON — Joe McCarthy and his aides have been chortling with glee over a piece of dynamite they are holding in reserve to spring on Army Counselor John G. Adams when he gets on the witness stand.

At first blush it might look as if McCarthy had something. On second blush his dynamite looks slightly damp. Anyway, here are the facts and the public can judge for itself.

The alleged Army scandal pertains to blood plasma and the purchase of substitute blood plasma from the Swedes.

Since blood plasma is all-important in case of atomic attack, and since real blood plasma is limited, the Army plans to stockpile a huge quantity of a new substitute. Dextran blood plasma expander—in fact, two pints for every man, woman and child in the U.S.A. It will be stored ready for war.

However, a Swedish firm, the Pharmacia Company, has filed patent claims on dextran and demands a royalty from the United States. With a goal of two pints for every person, this obviously would run into a lot of money, and it was at this point that Army Counselor John G. Adams stepped into the picture. It's also why McCarthy has been rubbing his hands with glee.

Adams' Compromise

For the Justice Department has declared Pharmacia's patents invalid, and though Pharmacia immediately appealed to the courts, Adams, as Army counselor, had to decide whether to accept the Justice Department's word and get involved in a long legal battle, or make a compromise with Pharmacia.

So he hired a New York lawyer, Frank A. Bowers, as special legal adviser to make a study of the whole thing.

Deal With Swedes

Bowers finally recommended a compromise by which the Army would pay Pharmacia 10 cents a pound royalty for dextran up to 100,000 pounds a year, with five cents a pound royalty over 100,000. "A payment, not royalty, of a minimum of $100,000 for each year," was the exact language of Bowers' recommendation. "If the purchases run up to 200,000 pounds, there will be a royalty of five cents per pound on all blood plasma expander purchased or produced by the government."

This would add up to an estimated $17,000,000 over the life of the patent, and the Justice Department raised a howl. They had already ruled that the patent was invalid and there was no obligation to the Swedish company.

However, Counselor Adams backed the compromise. And in an unpublished letter to Secretary of the Army Stevens, April 5 he wrote: "It is recommended that a settlement be sought with Pharmacia, if you concur. I shall prepare the appropriate letter to the Department of Justice outlining the views stated and recommended. . . . Revoke the adjustment act order and negotiate on the basis that the patent is at least of questionable validity. The negotiations would take into consideration that the claimants, Pharmacia, have contributed very valuable information to the field of blood plasma expander."

Wrong Lawyer

It was when this leaked out that Joe McCarthy began chortling. McCarthy aides discovered that Pharmacia's lawyers in New York are Fish, Richardson, and Neave, of which Frank A. Bowers is reportedly a member.

In other words, Counselor Adams, the man McCarthy hates, apparently had played right into McCarthy's hands by appointing as so-called neutral counsel a man who worked for the Swedish firm's law firm.

This column, however, checking on McCarthy's secret impending expose, found that the lawyer working for the Swedish attorneys is "Frank A. Barrows," an entirely different person from Frank A. Bowers, appointed by the Army.

Bowers, when queried by this column, said he had no connection, past or present, with Fish, Richardson and Neave, that his proposed compromise would be cheaper in the end than a long court battle, that the Swedes had helped to develop the blood-plasma patent, so we owed them a moral obligation.

Asked why the Army had picked him as special counsel, he said he had no idea, but supposed it was because he was a patent expert and this case involved patent law.

That's the story of what Senator McCarthy has been secretly preparing to spring on Army counselor John Adams when he takes the witness stand.

HST Refuses Free Car

Harry Truman, onetime ranking member of the Pearson non-administration society, may be a bit surprised to read this story about him on the week of his 70th birthday. But I hope he won't deny it as he has some stories in the past.

K. T. Keller, chairman of the Chrysler Corporation, told a group at the famed Bohemian Grove in California that he had telephoned the ex-President and told him he wanted him to have a Chrysler car.

Mr. Truman replied that he had been thinking about a Chrysler himself.

"What kind of model do you suggest?" he asked.

"Our best model is the Imperial," Keller replied.

"That sound a little too swanky for me. What else do you recommend?"

"Our New Yorker is next," said Keller. "However, Mr. President, I hope you realize that we want you to have this car with our compliments."

Mr. Truman demurred. "I'm a private citizen now," he said. "I don't think I should get any privileges that couldn't come to any other private citizen."

"But we'll get lots of publicity from this car, and we want to give it to you," Keller remonstrated.

"I don't care if you get a million dollars' worth of publicity. The office of President should not be exploited even when a Chrysler all right. But I'm going to have a Chrysler all right. And he did. This is the car Harry Truman has been driving."

"Is there anyone here," concluded Keller, as he told the story to the Bohemian Club group, "who would have turned down a similar offer?"

Wall Street Conclusions

By Roger W. Babson

NEW YORK CITY—The newspapers are discussing Geneva, London, and Paris in relation to Indochina. It is interesting to note what the leading columnists and the radio-television commentators have to say. But let me pass along the conclusions of a short, narrow alley in New York City—called Wall Street. This little street goes haywire sometimes—but not often.

Present Wall Street Prices

We cannot go by prices alone when the newspapers headline the financial news: "Highest Bond Prices Of The Year;" or "Highest Stock Prices Since 1929;" or, "Commodities Continue To Advance." For many investors have stocks and bonds which still show them a loss; while some farmers and manufacturers are selling their products below cost. Why this inconsistency?

As I have said before, the high stock prices are caused primarily by the thousands of mutual trust salesmen who are selling their funds' shares all over the country. The money received for these investment trust stocks which you buy goes into securities selected by the trusts' managers. Most of this money is placed in a few "blue-chip" nationally known stocks, perhaps in only 65 stocks selected from about 1,500 listed on the New York Stock Exchange. These 65 are used by the newspapers as the Dow-Jones stocks. What is said about these is true—they are very high. The rapidly growing pension funds are also causing present high prices for these 65 popular Wall Street stocks, even though many other stocks are going down.

Another Reason

There, however, is another reason for high prices. Prices are high because Wall Street thinks that we are to direct a "shooting war" against the Chinese and threaten to use atomic bombs. Already we are supplying the

Indochina patriots and French with airplanes, guns, shells, etc., the same as the Chinese are supplying the Communists of Indochina with war material without involving Russia. Our Defense Department argues that, as a last resort, we could also supply the Indochina army with atomic bombs, without involving Russia, or without starting World War III.

Neither Eisenhower nor Wall Street wants a World War III or a long Indochina war. Both dread the use of atomic bombs by either the United States or Russia against the other. But no one wants our foot soldiers involved in another "Korea" fought with our troops. Hence, I believe that we will get the soldiers of Formosa, Korea, the Philippines, Australia, and other bordering nations—directly interested—to do the fighting while we supply the arms.

Believed Possible

If so, it would cause commodity prices to strengthen; it would increase employment, and it should result in a Republican congressional victory this coming November. Under such conditions, Eisenhower could not balance the budget, but does Wall Street really want it balanced? Hence, notwithstanding the very high prices at which the 65 Dow-Jones stocks are now selling, Wall Street is bullish today.

I, therefore, make three forecasts: (1) That Mr. Eisenhower will not ask Congress for permission to send foot soldiers into Indochina, at least before the November elections.

(2) That the talk of using atomic bombs may so buck up the French and so scare the Chinese that they will all quit.

(3) That, instead of such a negotiated peace making the market go up, as peace should, Wall Street may see its pet 30 Dow-Jones Industrials go down before 1954 ends!

Tigers Maintain Lead By Beating Chicago Sox, 3-2

Darkness Halts 2nd Game In 10th At 0-0

CHICAGO, May 9.—The Detroit Tigers maintained their American League lead today as Steve Gromek pitched an 11-inning 3-2 triumph in the first game of a scheduled doubleheader with the Chicago White Sox and the second game was a 0-0 standoff after 10 innings.

Billy Hoelt of the Tigers and Billy Pierce of the Sox, who were called because of darkness, Hoelt allowed six hits, Pierce nine. It will be replayed at a later date.

The Tigers, who assumed a percentage-point lead over the Sox by virtue of Saturday's 12-1 victory at Comiskey Park, advanced to a half-game advantage over the Chicago club on today's win, witnessed by 15,882.

Gromek, who has pitched five complete games and won them all, hurled a 2-2 standoff against Sandy Consuegra for the first nine innings of the opener, then won the game over reliever Basil Trucks when Cass Michaels' batted throwing error allowed the winning run to score with two out in the second extra inning.

Manager Paul Richards called on Trucks, the 35-year-old fireballer, after Consuegra was taken out for a pinch hitter.

Trucks set the Tigers down in order in the 10th but in the 11th Detroit loaded the bases with two out on Frank House's single and two walks.

At this point Harvey Kuenn hit a bounding ball to Michaels and the Sox found a runner in an attempt to force a runner at second base.

Yankees Stop Trice, 7-4; Nightcap Ends In 1-1 Tie

New York Gets Three Homers Off A's Star

Redlegs, St. Louis Split, Kluszewski Hits Three Homers

CINCINNATI, May 9.—The New York Yankees handed Bob Trice his first defeat on homers by Andy Carey, Yogi Berra and Enos Slaughter in the first game today, 7-4, and rallied to tie the Philadelphia Athletics, 1-1, in the second game, called by darkness after nine innings.

Under a pre-season agreement the lights are not turned on in Yankee Stadium on Sundays so the game goes into the books as a tie and will be replayed completely at a later date. All batting and fielding records count.

The Yankees wrapped up the opener in the second and third innings in a combination of Trice's wildness and the home run power of Carey, Berra and Slaughter.

Keeping Up With Hollywood

by Louella Parsons

HOLLYWOOD, May 9.—(INS)—“Jump Into Hell” is the title Jack Warner has just handed to Irving Wallace with orders to write a story based on the headlines of the communist assault and capture of the gallant French fort of Dienbienphu.

The title is a shocker—but so is the story of the handful of men in the fort fighting against enormous odds, and the courageous but futile reinforcements by paratroopers.

The situation may yet set the world afire unless calm minds and the prayers of good people everywhere can prevail against the enemy.

David Butler has been signed to direct and David Weisbart will produce.

I'm glad Merle Oberon has agreed to play Josephine in “Desiree” opposite Marion Brand's Napoleon. I say this because I remember Merle so vividly as Anne Boleyn in her first picture, “Henry VIII.” She was such a knockout as the unhappy queen that she immediately became a star.

Just a few weeks ago, Merle was thinking of returning to Europe.

But things started popping for her in Hollywood—and it will be impossible for her to get away this summer. She starts “Desiree” just as soon as she finishes “Deep In My Heart” the Romberg story at MGM.

One time glamor girl Nancy Valentine, formerly married to the Maharajah of Cooch-Behar, has just completed a year in a Yogi retreat near Los Angeles. Nancy, who was heartbroken over the outcome of her marriage to Cooch-Behar and very unhappy over her romance with a well known Hollywood celebrity, entered the retreat and cut herself off from all her friends and family.

For the first time Nancy came out of seclusion last week and lunched at Scandia, the place she used to haunt when she was a playgirl.

She is completely changed, but she tells friends she is happy in her new, strange life and plans to return to the retreat and stay there.

At long last, on July 7, “Oklahoma!”, Rodgers and Hammerstein's hit musical, goes before the cameras. This is official—also, that the picture will be filmed in Todd-AO process, the first time it will be seen. There's a location jaunt for two months in Oklahoma and elsewhere before the company settles down at MGM.

When Gordon Mac Rae returns from his fishing trip in the High Sierras he'll put his name on the dotted line to play Curly, Debbie Reynolds is still the number one girl for Ado Annie, although Pat Crowley is not out of the running as this is written. Others are, in fact, several names were out in press agents and were never considered.

Director Fred Zimmemann starts rehearsals in June and you can look for rapid casting on the minor roles.

Snapshots of Hollywood collected at random: Sophie Gimble, famed courtesier, will be a grandma in the fall. Her son, Jay Rossbach.

and his pretty wife are expecting. Yes, that was Bing all right with Grace Kelly at the Mocambo. Every one of Grace's male stars find her attractive and can you blame them?

Dorothy Arnold, the ex-Mrs. Joe Di Maggio, opens tomorrow night for a week at The Players. This is really a tryout for her.

Wasn't there an argument between Arlene Dahl and Fernando Lamas at the Famous Restaurant, where they were having dinner. Well, they'll probably fight and fight and fight—and make up!

Milton Berle was a good samaritan when he took Jimmy Ritz to the doctor in a hurry and had a serious cyst removed from the Ritz brother's eye.

Doris Duke who financed Nicer Charisse's studio, arrives in time for the cocktail party May 13 at Charisse's Studio.

Lillian Roth's biography, “I'll Cry Tomorrow,” which Mike Connolly ghosted, is being discussed by one of the major studios.

Marie Crisp, Donald's ex-wife, has opened a different kind of shop in Beverly Hills. It's for the rental of evening and afternoon gowns for the belles who can't afford to buy them.

Bob Staak and Rosemary Bowe are becoming just as steady as his brother Jim and Wanda Hendrix. The four just barely missed each other a few nights ago at the Sportsmen's Lodge.

That's all today. See you tomorrow.

Lonaconing Man's Will Is Probated

The will of Matthew A. Jones of Lonaconing who died April 26 at the age of 87, has been admitted to probate in Allegany County Orphans Court.

His two sons, James Jones of Lonaconing and Clarence W. Jones of Baird, Pa., qualified as executors of the estate. Jones stipulated in his will dated June 16, 1953, that the sons and three daughters, Ethel Llewellyn of Sykesville, Elizabeth Miller of Frostburg and Janet Jones Brouch of Chicago, Ill., should share in the proceeds of one life insurance policy.

Another, which was carried by the West Virginia Pulp and Paper Company, is to be divided between the two sons. The real estate and household belongings in Lonaconing were left to Clarence Jones.

Correct makeup, dress and pose are factors that make your photograph a thing of beauty.

Secrets Of Charm

by John Robert Powers

For release Monday May 10 1954

Many are the times when one might wish for a fairy godmother to perform miracles of beauty. One of these is the day you face a camera—for the formal portrait in your wedding gown, the graduation picture, the photograph that will accompany a job application, or one to appear in the newspapers with announcement of your election to a club presidency.

The product of the cameraman, whatever its purpose, should portray you at your sparkling best—natural, composed, charming. Since nobody has yet developed the technique for materializing fairy godmothers to fulfill these requirements, it's up to you to perform miracles for yourself. And you can!

First, consider your best point of view. Seldom are one's features perfectly balanced. So you want the photographer to catch your nicest angle. Even before you face the lens and the powerful lights, however, give attention to a number of appearance elements.

Beforehand Hints

Your makeup: Apply your regular foundation sparingly and smoothly to all areas of your face and neck. Blend a foundation two shades darker than normal into the area of your cheekbones, to emphasize the “beauty planes” of your face. Now, powder lightly.

Your eyes: Darken the upper lashes with mascara, and outline both lower and upper lids lightly in pencil. Blend eye-shadow on the upper lid, fading into nothing at the corners. Skillful blending brings greater depth, greater dimension to the all-important eye area.

Your lips: Shape the lips as you usually do, being careful not to exaggerate size or contour unless your lips are a mere thin line; then enlarge upon the natural shape. Remember to moisten your lips just before the photographer snaps the shutter.

Your hair: Here, again it's smart to play natural. Plan on a shampoo the day before your photography date, so the wave will be smooth but not “set” at picture-taking time. Comb your hair in its normal styling, not in a severe or “high style” wave.

What To Wear

Your clothes: Simplicity is the key to your choice of apparel. A floral print is out, definitely! A soft shade is best, preferable to the glare of white or the blankness of black. Jewelry? If you like, but tend to the unobtrusive. Neckline? Whichever is most becoming to the contour of your face. For once it's not the total look that counts; it's your head-and-shoulders appearance.

TEN SECRETS OF CHARM
You are welcome, free of charge, to the reminder card, “TEN SECRETS OF CHARM.” It lists ten points to remember as milestones along the road to greater charm. Carry it with you and you won't overlook any of the ways you impress all who come in contact with you. Write to Secrets of Charm in care of this newspaper and enclose a stamped, self-addressed return envelope.

Keeping Up With Hollywood

by Louella Parsons

HOLLYWOOD, May 9.—(INS)—“Jump Into Hell” is the title Jack Warner has just handed to Irving Wallace with orders to write a story based on the headlines of the communist assault and capture of the gallant French fort of Dienbienphu.

The title is a shocker—but so is the story of the handful of men in the fort fighting against enormous odds, and the courageous but futile reinforcements by paratroopers.

The situation may yet set the world afire unless calm minds and the prayers of good people everywhere can prevail against the enemy.

David Butler has been signed to direct and David Weisbart will produce.

I'm glad Merle Oberon has agreed to play Josephine in “Desiree” opposite Marion Brande's Napoleon. I say this because I remember Merle so vividly as Anne Boleyn in her first picture, “Henry VIII.” She was such a knockout as the unhappy queen that she immediately became a star.

Just a few weeks ago, Merle was thinking of returning to Europe.

But things started popping for her in Hollywood—and it will be impossible for her to get away this summer. She starts “Desiree” just as soon as she finishes “Deep In My Heart” the Romberg story at MGM.

One time glamor girl Nancy Valentine, formerly married to the Maharajah of Cooch-Bihar, has just completed a year in a Yogi retreat near Los Angeles. Nancy, who was heartbroken over the outcome of her marriage to Cooch-Bihar and very unhappy over her romance with a well known Hollywood celebrity, entered the retreat and cut herself off from all her friends and family.

For the first time Nancy came out of seclusion last week and lunched at Scandia, the place she used to haunt when she was a playgirl.

She is completely changed, but she tells friends she is happy in her new, strange life and plans to return to the retreat and stay there.

At long last, on July 7, “Oklahoma!”, Rodgers and Hammerstein's hit musical, goes before the cameras. This is official—also, that the picture will be filmed in Todd-AO process, the first time it will be seen. There's a location joint for two months in Oklahoma and elsewhere before the company settles down at MGM.

When Gordon Mac Rae returns from his fishing trip in the High Sierras he'll put his name on the dotted line to play Curly. Debbie Reynolds is still the number one girl for Ado Annie, although Pat Crowley is not out of the running as this is written. Others are: In fact, several names were put in by press agents and were never considered.

Director Fred Zinnemann starts rehearsals in June and you can look for rapid casting on the minor roles.

Snapshots of Hollywood collected at random: Sophie Gimble, famed couturiere, will be a grandma in the fall. Her son, Jay Rosbach, and his pretty wife are expecting.

Yes, that was Bing all right with Grace Kelly at the Mocambo. Every one of Grace's male stars find her attractive and can you blame them?

Dorothy Arnold, the ex-Mrs. Joe Di Maggio, opens tomorrow night for a week at The Players. This is really a tryout for her.

Wasn't there an argument between Arlene Dahl and Fernando Lamas at the Famous Restaurant, where they were having dinner. Well, they'll probably fight and fight and fight—and make up!

Milton Berle was a good samaritan when he took Jimmy Ritz to the doctor in a hurry and had a serious cyst removed from the Ritz brother's eye.

Doris Duke who financed Nicco Chassise's studio, arrives in time for the cocktail party May 13 at Chassise's Studio.

Lillian Roth's biography, “I'll Cry Tomorrow,” which Mike Connolly ghosted, is being discussed by one of the major studios.

Marie Crisp, Donald's ex-wife, has opened a different kind of shop in Beverly Hills. It's for the rental of evening and afternoon gowns for the belles who can't afford to buy them.

Bob Stack and Rosemary Bowe are becoming just as steady as his brother Jim and Wanda Hendrix. The four just barely missed each other a few nights ago at the Sportsman's Lodge.

That's all today. See you tomorrow.

Lonaconing Man's Will Is Probated

The will of Matthew A. Jones of Lonaconing who died April 26 at the age of 87, has been admitted to probate in Allegany County Orphans Court.

His two sons, James Jones of Lonaconing and Clarence W. Jones of Bairdport Pa., qualified as executors of the estate. Jones stipulated in his will dated June 16, 1933, that the sons and three daughters, Ethel Llewellyn of Sykesville, Elizabeth Miller of Frostburg and Janet Jones Brouch of Chicago, Ill., should share in the proceeds of one life insurance policy.

Another, which was carried by the West Virginia Pulp and Paper Company, is to be divided between the two sons. The real estate and household belongings in Lonaconing were left to Clarence Jones.

Correct makeup, dress and pose are factors that make your photograph a thing of beauty.

Secrets Of Charm

by John Robert Powers

For release Monday May 10 1954

Many are the times when one might wish for a fairy godmother to perform miracles of beauty. One of these is the day you face a camera—for the formal portrait in your wedding gown, the graduation picture, the photograph that will accompany a job application, or one to appear in the newspapers with announcement of your election to a club presidency.

The product of the cameraman, whatever its purpose, should portray you at your sparkling best—natural, composed, charming. Since nobody has yet developed the technique for materializing fairy godmothers to fulfill these requirements, it's up to you to perform miracles for yourself. And you can!

First, consider your best point of view. Seldom are one's features perfectly balanced. So you want the photographer to catch your nicest angle. Even before you face the lens and the powerful lights, however, give attention to a number of appearance elements.

Beforehand Hints

Your makeup: Apply your regular foundation sparingly and smoothly to all areas of your face and neck. Blend a foundation two shades darker than normal into the area of your cheekbones, to emphasize the “beauty planes” of your face. Now, powder lightly.

Your eyes: Darken the upper lashes with mascara, and outline both lower and upper lids lightly in pencil. Blend eye-shadow on the upper lid, fading into nothing at the corners. Skillful blending brings greater depth, greater dimension to the all-important eye area.

Your lips: Shape the lips as you usually do, being careful not to exaggerate size or contour unless your lips are a mere thin line, then enlarge upon the natural shape. Remember to moisten your lips just before the photographer snaps the shutter.

Your hair: Here, again it's smart to play natural. Plan on a shampoo the day before your photography date, so the wave will be smooth but not “set” at picture-taking time. Comb your hair in its normal styling, not in a severe or “high style” wave.

What To Wear

Your clothes: Simplicity is the key to your choice of apparel. A floral print is out, definitely! A soft shade is best, preferable to the glare of white or the blankness of black. Jewelry? If you like, but tend to the unobtrusive. Neckline? Whichever is most becoming to the contour of your face. For once it's not the total look that counts; it's your head-and-shoulders appearance.

TEN SECRETS OF CHARM. You are welcome, free of charge, to the reminder card, TEN SECRETS OF CHARM. It lists ten points to remember as milestones along the road to greater charm. Carry it with you and you won't overlook any of the ways you impress all who come in contact with you. Write to Secrets of Charm in care of this newspaper and enclose a stamped, self-addressed return envelope.

Radio And Television

by John Crosby

(While John Crosby is on vacation, his column will be continued by a number of guest writers. This one is by Victor Borge.)

A Word From Our Sponsor

Don't say that television hasn't grown consistently.

In the mid-forties I was watching TV on a 7-inch screen. Today I'm watching the same shows on a 24-inch screen. That's a growth of exactly 24 inches in a little less than 10 years. What used to be little darts and dots moving around in what seemed to be desert sandstorms can now be distinctly recognized as Frankie Darro, Warner Oland, Farmer Jones and Rin Tin Tin in clear arctic blizzards.

Simultaneously, and at the same rate per square inch, the stomach tubes generally known as ulcers have grown inside the comedians. In a theater or nightclub, such a performer will play to, let's say, 1,000 people a night—an extravagant estimate for an average night club performer. His routines remain fundamentally the same from night to night and therefore, like wine, improve with age.

In television, he performs this routine to maybe as many as 30,000,000 people at a clip. By simple arithmetic, he would have to give 30,000 night club performances to reach this same audience before changing his act—a run of eighty-two years, two months, one week and three days.

On television he is forced to come up with a new act every week—or, in certain cases, once every month. There seems to be a discrepancy here.

I do not suggest that a comedian should wait 82 years or so before reappearing on TV—except for maybe a very few cases. But I strongly believe that he should be rationed, like any other rare commodity; he should not be asked to reappear until he has had time to prepare new material, new methods of presentation—without strain, without rush and without fear. There is much too much demand for comedy in television. It has exhausted both the comedians and their material, not to mention the audience.

Insofar as my personal contact with the medium is concerned, it developed like this: I have been affiliated over a number of years with a talent agency known as MCA. It has been a pleasant association. Several times each year I have been called to a conference to discuss their ideas about a new show for me. "We'll get a great singer, a great dance team, and a great instrumental group," they say. "We'll surround you with great sets, a great costume designer!" When I ask the modest question, "Who's available?" it turns out that the successful talents are, by virtue of their success, unavailable. The alternative is to get some unsuccessful and therefore highly available talent. This is as far as we ever get, which keeps me extremely available for the next meeting with MCA.

Between these meetings, I have been fortunate enough to experience quite a few guest appearances on television, which proceed as follows:

ANNOUNCER: "But before we go into further details, here's a word from our guest artist." For the next four minutes and 19 seconds, I am expected to "warm up" and acquaint myself with approximately 20 to 30 million people, have them all in hysterics, play 36 bars straight of the Warsaw Concerto and just enough piano banging to identify the theme of what lately has become Chopin's Mayonnaise, followed by six seconds of devastating, riotous comedy. Even that might be possible if after only three minutes and 11 seconds have elapsed, an assistant stage manager did not crawl up in front of me and, attracting the entire attention of the audience, signal with both legs and all available arms: Cut-time is up—get the hell out of here.

Does anybody wonder why I have sought refuge in a quiet theater? I can't tell you how grateful I am every night when I look through the peephole of the curtain at the Golden Theater on Broadway with peace of mind, knowing that happiness prevails on both sides of the lights.

As for television, my ambition is to arrange with a network to do maybe four or five shows a year, with ample time for preparation, at the same standard as my "Comedy in Music."

Failing this, then I should be satisfied with the job of assistant producer of the Late Late Show. And meanwhile I shall keep myself busy developing to perfection my new invention: a polaroid ear trumpet for three-dimensional music.

Police Probe Alleged Attack

A 28-year-old Cumberland man was arrested Saturday after his wife told police he "threw" her out of their automobile on Long Hill and assaulted her.

Detective Leo E. P. Law said the woman, Mrs. Jo Ann Labor, 22, of RD 2, Williams Road, was admitted to Memorial Hospital for treatment of injuries allegedly sustained in the attack.

Police reported Mrs. Labor "looked in bad shape and could hardly walk" due to a possible hip injury. Her condition was reported satisfactory, however.

Taken into custody on an assault warrant secured by Detective Law was Lewis Paul Labor. Held in the city lockup, he was removed to the county jail and then released after an appearance in Trial Magistrate Court. No date was set for a hearing.

Dorothy Meader, aunt of Mrs. Labor, corroborated the attack story and said she struck Labor with her pocketbook after seeing him beat his wife. The Labors had been to a party and apparently were en route home.

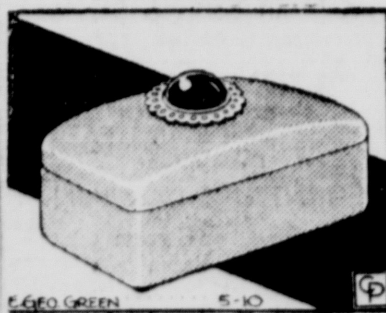

Summoned to Long Hill following the alleged attack, Officers George W. Furstenberg and John S. Chaney took the women to police headquarters for interrogation.

Campbell Will Speak At Traffic Club Meet

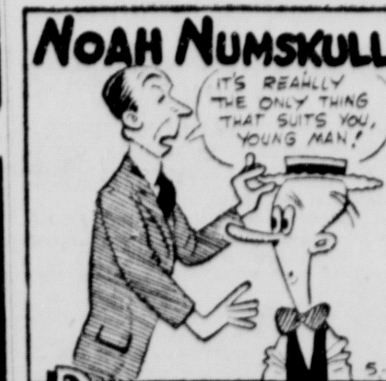

Mal Campbell, manager of Radio Station WCUM, will be guest speaker at the monthly meeting of the Tri-State Traffic Club Wednesday at Ali Ghan Country Club.

The meeting will get under way at 6:30 p. m. (EDT). Campbell's topic of discussion will be "The Next Voice You Hear." Election of officers is also planned during the meeting.

Radio And Television

by John Crosby

(While John Crosby is on vacation, his column will be continued by a number of guest writers. This one is by Victor Borge.)

By VICTOR BORGE

A Word From Our Sponsor

Don't say that television hasn't grown consistently.

In the mid-forties I was watching TV on a 7-inch screen. Today I'm watching the same shows on a 24-inch screen. That's a growth of exactly 21 inches in a little less than 10 years. What used to be little darts and dots moving around in what seemed to be desert sandstorms can now be distinctly recognized as Frankie Darro, Warner Oland, Farmer Jones and Rip Tin Tin in clear arctic blizzards.

Simultaneously, and at the same rate per square inch, the stomach tubes generally known as ulcers have grown inside the comedians. In a theater or nightclub, such a performer will play to, let's say, 1,000 people a night—an extravagant estimate for an average night club perhaps. His routines remain fundamentally the same from night to night and therefore, like wine, improve with age.

In television, he performs this routine to maybe as many as 30,000,000 people at a clip. By simple arithmetic, he would have to give 30,000 night club performances to reach this same audience before changing his act—a run of eighty-two years, two months, one week and three days.

On television he is forced to come up with a new act every week—or, in certain cases, once every month. There seems to be a discrepancy here.

I do not suggest that a comedian should wait 82 years or so before reappearing on TV—except for maybe a very few cases. But I strongly believe that he should be rationed, like any other rare commodity; he should not be asked to reappear until he has had time to prepare new material, new methods of presentation—without strain, without rush and without fear. There is much too much demand for comedy in television. It has exhausted both the comedians and their material, not to mention the audience.

Insofar as my personal contact with the medium is concerned, it developed like this: I have been affiliated over a number of years with a talent agency known as MCA. It has been a pleasant association. Several times each year I have been called to a conference to discuss their ideas about a new show for me. "We'll get a great singer, a great dance team, and a great instrumental group," they say. "We'll surround you with great sets, a great producer, a great director, a great costume designer!" When I ask the modest question, "Who's available?" it turns out that the successful talents are, by virtue of their success, unavailable. The alternative is to get some unsuccessful and therefore highly available talent. This is as far as we ever get, which keeps me extremely available for the next meeting with MCA.

Between these meetings, I have been fortunate enough to experience quite a few guest appearances on television, which proceed as follows:

ANNOUNCER: "But before we go into further details, here's a word from our guest artist."

For the next four minutes and 19 seconds, I am expected to "warm up" and acquaint myself with approximately 20 to 30 million people, have them all in hysterics, play 36 bars straight of the Warsaw Concerto and just enough piano banging to identify the theme of what lately has become Chopin's Mayonnaise, followed by six seconds of devastating, riotous comedy. Even that might be possible if after only three minutes and 11 seconds have elapsed, an assistant stage manager did not crawl up in front of me and, attracting the entire attention of the audience, signal with both legs and all available arms: Cut—time is up—get the hell out of here.

Does anybody wonder why I have sought refuge in a quiet theater? I can't tell you how grateful I am every night when I look through the peephole of the curtain at the Golden Theater on Broadway with peace of mind, knowing that happiness prevails on both sides of the lights.

As for television, my ambition is to arrange with a network to come maybe four or five shows a year, with ample time for preparation, at the same standard as my "Comedy in Music."

Failing this, then I would be satisfied with the job of assistant producer of the Late Late Show. And meanwhile I shall keep myself busy developing to perfection my new invention: a polaroid ear trumpet for three-dimensional music.

Police Probe Alleged Attack

A 28-year-old Cumberland man was arrested Saturday after his wife told police he "threw" her out of their automobile on Long Hill and assaulted her.

Detective Leo E. P. Law said the woman, Mrs. Jo Ann Labor, 22, of R.D. 2, Williams Road, was admitted to Memorial Hospital for treatment of injuries allegedly sustained in the attack.

Police reported Mrs. Labor "looked in bad shape and could hardly walk" due to a possible hip injury. Her condition was reported satisfactory, however.

Taken into custody on an assault warrant secured by Detective Law was Lewis Paul Labor, 28, held in the city lockup, he was removed to the county jail and then released after an appearance in Trial Magistrate Court. No date was set for a hearing.

Dorothy Meader, aunt of Mrs. Labor, corroborated the attack story and said she struck Labor with her pocketbook after seeing him beat his wife. The Labors had been to a party and apparently were en route home.

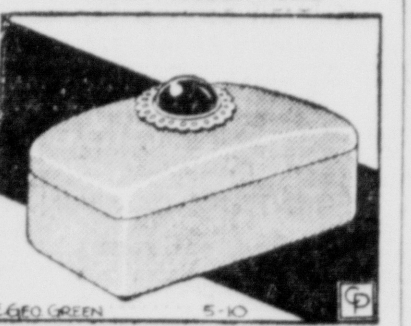

Summoned to Long Hill following the alleged attack, Officers George W. Furstenburg and John S. Chaney took the women to police headquarters for interrogation.

Campbell Will Speak At Traffic Club Meet

Mal Campbell, manager of Radio Station WCUM, will be guest speaker at the monthly meeting of the Tri-State Traffic Club Wednesday at Ali Ghan Country Club.

The meeting will get under way at 6:30 p. m. (EDT). Campbell's topic of discussion will be "The Next Voice You Hear." Election of officers is also planned during the meeting.

WIFE PRESERVERS

If you lose one pretty earring, do not throw it away. Remove the shank and glue the rest to the cover of a small box. It will make a pretty box for your dressing table.

In Memoriam

In loving memory of our dear wife and mother, Myrtle L. Cingerman, who departed this life one year ago today, May 10, 1953.

A bitter grief, a shock severe,
To part with one we loved so dear.
We had seen you so long,
And held you so dear,
And heard the last sigh from your heart,
We would not feel so sad,
We did not know the pain you had,
We did not see you die,
We only knew you were far away,
And never had a chance to say
"Goodbye."

Sadly missed by HUSBAND,
DAUGHTER and GRANDCHILDREN

Happy!

Yes, all of us competitors who want hundreds of $55.00. Every car plainly marked. Would you buy from a Super Market that didn't price their goods? We are not ashamed of our prices. We don't want to get rich. (No chance at these prices)

ORDER OF PUBLICATION
Lionel J. Moreland, Plaintiff, vs. George Virginia Moreland, Defendant. No. 23622

Writ of Habeas Corpus for Allegany County, Maryland. The object of this suit is to procure a decree annulling the Matrimonial of the Plaintiff from the defendant. The Bill states that the parties hereto were married on June 30, 1951, in the County of Allegany, Maryland, and the defendant deserted the plaintiff, without just cause or reason, and said desertion has continued uninterrupted for more than 18 months prior to the filing of the Bill hereon, and the parties have not cohabited as man and wife during said period. That there is no reasonable hope or expectation of a reconciliation. That no children were born of said marriage. That plaintiff is a resident of the State of Maryland, and defendants last known address is Rt. 1, Inwood, West Virginia.

IT IS THEREUPON this 17th day of April, 1954, by the Circuit Court for Allegany County, in Equity, ordered that the plaintiff be allowed to publish a copy of this order to be published in some newspaper, once in each of four successive weeks before the 20th day of May, 1954, give notice to the said absent defendant of the object and purpose of this suit and warning her to appear in court on or before the 7th day of May, 1954, to show cause, if any she has, why a decree should not be passed as prayed.

16 Persons Hurt In Auto Crashes Over Weekend

Three Hospitalized In Sunday Mishaps

In a series of automobile accidents in the Tri-State area over the weekend, 16 persons were injured and 11 hospitalized.

The three persons hospitalized in accidents yesterday include:

Mrs. Frank Gobell, 53, of 432 Arch Street, admitted to Sacred Heart Hospital suffering a fractured nose and lacerations of the knee, hands and arms. She is in fair condition.

Rev. William Everett Wade, Gorman, W. Va., admitted to Memorial Hospital where X-rays will be taken. He is reported in good condition.

Edward Kitzmiller, 36, of Elk Garden, W. Va., admitted to Garrett Memorial Hospital, Oakland, suffering chest injuries.

Mrs. Gobell, according to City Police, was injured when the car operated by her son, Donald L. Gobell, clipped a telephone pole on South Street after the car had left the street and had run over a curb.

Officer John F. Daum said Mrs. Gobell had asked her son for some change for the church collection. He was trying to find some when the mishap occurred, at about 7:10 a. m. He was treated at Memorial Hospital for lacerated lips and knees, and is being charged with reckless driving. Police said the car was demolished.

Crash At Intersection
Rev. Wade, according to State Trooper Robert Henline, was injured when his car and an auto driven by Edward Kitzmiller collided at an intersection on Route 560 about a mile north of Gorman.

The accident, police said, occurred about 11:45 a. m. (EDT) as Rev. Wade was pulling out of a country road onto Route 560. He was returning home from a morning church service.

Also injured and treated at the Oakland Hospital were Mrs. Margie Kitzmiller, 25, Gerald Kitzmiller, nine, and Justin Turner, of Jordan Run, who were riding in the Kitzmiller auto.

They were treated for cuts and bruises. No charges were filed pending further investigation.

Two Others Hurt
Attendees at Sacred Heart Hospital said James Melvin Gordon, 48, and his nephew, James Stanford VanMeter, 22, both of Rawlings, were hurt when their auto collided with a car driven by Walter Brook Rawlings, Keyser, on Route 220 near Cresaptown Saturday.

Lt. W. E. O'Hara, commander of LaVale Barracks, Maryland State Police, said the Keyser man's machine heading north towards Cumberland and the Gordon auto heading south wrecked just south of Cresaptown.

The Gordon car went over a 30-foot embankment and the Rawlings auto overturned, Lt. O'Hara said.

VanMeter was admitted to the hospital where 44 stitches were required to close the lacerations on his face and scalp sustained when his head went through the windshield of his uncle's car.

Gordon suffered superficial injuries but did not require hospitalization. Mrs. VanMeter, also a passenger in the Gordon car, was not hurt.

State Trooper Lindberg Cook investigated.

Students Injured
Admitted Friday to Sacred Heart were Charles Perkins, 23, and George Grames, 20, both students at Washington Missionary College, Takoma Park. Perkins was discharged Saturday, while Grames, who sustained head and back injuries, was reported in "good" condition last night. The students were injured when their car skidded on the wet highway nine miles east of Shipway's Inn, east of here.

Also admitted Friday evening to Sacred Heart were three members of a Farmington, W. Va., family, when their vehicle went out of control near Polish Mountain and skidded into a bank along the highway.

Attaches said the family group was in "fair" condition. They included Samuel Myers, 48, who was suffering from shock and a severe mouth injury; his wife, Mrs. Edna Myers, who suffered an injury to her right arm, and their five-year-old daughter, Louise, who sustained a fractured left leg.

Bedford County (Pa.) Memorial Hospital, Bedford, attaches reported Mrs. Evelyn Albrecht, 54, of Charlottesville, Va., had been transferred to a Pittsburgh hospital for treatment of "critical" injuries suffered in an accident on the Turnpike west of Bedford.

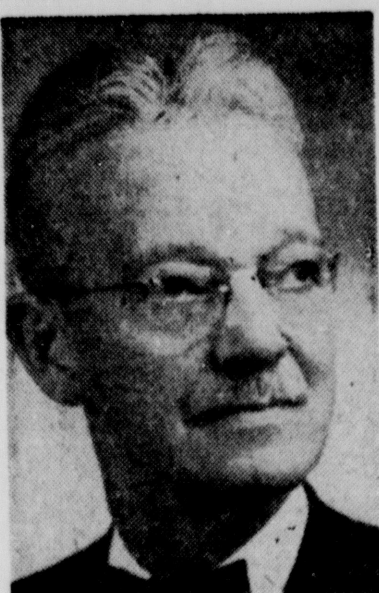

She was reported to have received a skull fracture, compound fracture of the spine, fractured ribs and punctured lungs when her car skidded on the wet highway and rolled into a drainage ditch.

Boy Hit By Car
A six-year-old boy was admitted to Sacred Heart Hospital yesterday afternoon with injuries sustained when he ran into the path of an automobile on Bedford Street.

Injured was Edward Leasure, son of Mr. and Mrs. Leo E. Leasure, 1804 Bedford Street. Attaches said the youth suffered a head injury and a fracture of the right leg.

Authorities, who said no charges would be preferred, identified the driver of the car as Herbert Wilson, Shanksville, Pa. The accident took place about 4 p. m., police said.

The father is an employee of the Times and Alleganian Company.

Annual Fun Fair In South End Starts Thursday

Many Activities Scheduled There

The South Cumberland Business Men's Association's annual Fun Fair is virtually ready to open at the Penn Avenue ball field, according to Nelson W. Russler, who is serving as general chairman of the festivities.

The fair will be held Thursday, Friday and Saturday. There will be evening sessions starting at 7 o'clock all three nights and continuing until the crowd leaves the grounds. On Saturday there will be a matinee starting at 1 o'clock.

Russler announced that on Saturday afternoon a bicycle will be given away as a prize to some boy or girl. The prizes for the adults Saturday night will be a 21-inch television set.

Special entertainment has been arranged for each evening of the Fun Fair. On Thursday night the Shrine Band will entertain. Friday night the Fort Hill High School band will play. On Saturday there will be a hill billy band contest and members of the Police Boys Club will present a brief boxing exhibition.

Six rides will be installed for the three-day Fun Fair. There will be a ferris wheel, merry-go-round, swings, a miniature train and airplane ride. Refreshments will be served.

Proceeds from the Fun Fair will be used by the business men for their Christmas decorations, for their Halloween parade prizes and for other civic purposes.

The Weather

It was topcast weather again over the weekend as the mercury plunged to 34 degrees early yesterday. Robert R. Golden, official weather observer at Constitution Park, said a few groups of picknickers braved yesterday's chilly gloom and intermittent showers, although the official thermometer never went over 57 degrees. There was a light frost early yesterday in some sections, but no damage was reported. Humidity at 6 p. m. was 59 per cent and rainfall was too little to be measured. The Weather Bureau foresees more cool weather today, with a few scattered showers likely.

Today's Sermonette

Today's sermonette is a digest of the sermon preached Friday at Beth Jacob Synagogue by the spiritual leader, Rabbi Joseph Schimelman. The sermon digests are being prepared through the cooperation of the Cumberland Ministerial Association.

The Dangers Of Extremism

By RABBI J. SCHIMELMAN
In times of confusion, such as we live in today, the greatest source for stability is the Bible. The Bible is purchased by more than five million people every year, greatly out-numbering all other books combined. And this is so because the Bible has been the source of inspiration and the guiding light in times of trouble and distress.

The Bible states, "What thing soever I command you, even that shall ye observe to do, thou shalt not add to it, and thou shalt not diminish therefrom" (Deut. 13:1). God doesn't want us to be too zealous in adding and making more strict the moral laws He gave us, nor does He desire that people interpret the Bible to say that such and such laws are not necessary in these days. Extremes of either sort are not healthy.

How many people have we met who have nothing to do with religion, only because they were brought up in a home that was extreme and overstrict in its religion. The child brought up in such an atmosphere will throw off the extremist burden as soon as he is able to assert himself, and in revolt will go to the extreme of complete non-observance.

On the other hand, I have met young people who had no religious training at all, who have become overzealous in their reaction to the early void in their lives.

In the Bible itself we find the example of God forbidding Adam and Eve to eat certain fruit. Eve, in her conversation with the serpent, added to God's command the prohibition of touching the fruit as well. Because of her misrepresentation she was led to sin. She thought that touching could do no harm, and therefore eating it would be harmless as well.

The Bible teaches us that adding to commandments will lead to the other extreme of subtracting commandments. This same principle should be applied to our daily living, and to government. Neither dictatorship nor anarchy are desirable. Subversion for the sake of idealism is just as bad as super-patriotism for the sake of selfish power.

Let us remember, when we are angered by certain conditions and are tempted to go to extremes beyond what God's law or our country's law calls for, that the extreme may lead eventually to the opposite end we are trying to achieve.

Rowswell To Speak At Alumni Dinner

Albert K. "Rosy" Rowswell, well known radio announcer of Pittsburgh Pirates baseball games, will be the guest speaker at the annual All-Letter dinner of the Pennsylvania Avenue-Fort Hill High School Alumni Association today at 6:15 p. m. at St. John's Lutheran Church.

David Kauffman will be the toastmaster.

Student guests include those who are awarded letters for participating in such school activities as the band, choral groups, dramatics, cheer leading, first aid, ushering, mimeography, monitoring, photography, the school newspaper, library work and various sports activities.

Firemen Check Call
Firemen at Central station had an early morning call yesterday as they checked a blaze near the rear of 607 North Mechanic Street. A pile of wood apparently was ignited by a spark from a fire which had been burning in a nearby rubbish can. The call was received at 12:55 a. m. yesterday.

Volunteer Fire Fighters Plan June Convention

Event To Be Held At Friendsville

Virtually completed plans for the annual convention of the Allegany-Garrett County Volunteer Firemen's Association were approved yesterday at the May meeting of the association at the home of Ellerslie Volunteer Fire Department.

The convention, which will be held this year in Friendsville, will get under way at 1 p. m. (EDT) Thursday, June 3. The convention dinner will be served at the Friendsville School at 5 p. m. (EDT) and the parade will start at 7 p. m.

Besides the election of new officers, the feature of the convention probably will be a revision of the by-laws, according to present plans.

State Officials Invited
Invitations have been extended to officers of the State Firemen's Association to attend the convention in the Garrett County town.

Those invited include William A. Chenoweth of Pikesville, president; John W. Smith, West Annapolis, first vice president; T. C. Gardner of Riverdale Heights, second vice president, and Robert C. Byrus, director of Fire Service Extension at College Park.

The two-county executive committee went on record yesterday as endorsing William A. Wilson of Midland for re-election as treasurer of the state association, a position he has filled for a number of years. The state convention will be held June 23, 24 and 25 in Ocean City.

Russler Is Honored
A past secretary's badge was presented to Nelson W. Russler at the Ellerslie meeting by William E. Lawyer of Bedford Road Company, president.

The group heard a report on efforts of the convention promotion committee to bring the state convention back to Cumberland in 1955. The last firemen's convention here was in 1951. The last two have been in Ocean City, as will this year's.

Members of the Auxiliary of the Ellerslie Volunteer Fire Department served a chicken dinner at the close of the meeting. Twenty-two of the 31 companies in the two counties were represented.

Local Approves New Contract With Breweries

Members of Local 265, Brewery Workers, yesterday morning approved a new one-year contract, retroactive to May 1, according to Orville M. Young, local president.

Covered by the pact are about 250 employees of the two local breweries, Cumberland Brewing Company and Queen City Brewing Company.

Young said the contract was approved at a special meeting of Local 265 at the Eagles Home on North Mechanic Street.

The only monetary change in the contract provides a five-cents-an-hour increase for all brewery workers.

A number of changes in the contract are simply clarifications which are beneficial to both the companies and the workers, Young explained.

Formal signing of the contract will be delayed until later this week so that copies can be printed, the local president said.

Although the old contract expired at midnight Friday, April 30, there was no cessation of operations. Both breweries continued operations under the old agreement.

Eagles Mother's Day Program

Among the principals in yesterday's Mother's Day program at the home of Aerie 245, Fraternal Order of Eagles, were (left to right) Herman L. Myers, secretary of the aerie; V. T. Morrissey, trustee; State Senator Robert B. Kimble, who gave the principal address;

Charles W. Robinette, president of the aerie; John H. Hager, trustee, and Lawrence I. Matt, treasurer. A class of 43 candidates was initiated as part of the observance. The Eagles are largely responsible for the national observance of the day.

5,000 Toys Collected In Drive Here

Over 5,000 discarded toys which will gladden the hearts of deserving children of Cumberland next December 25, were collected by Boy Scouts of the city during the "Toys for Tots" drive conducted Saturday morning.

These toys, which are now in a storeroom at 119 North Centre Street, will be repaired and repainted, and include every type toy from bicycles to sleds and small plastic cars.

The drive was conducted by the Marine Corps Reserve, Associated Charities and Boy Scouts. Capt. H. W. Tubbs Jr., inspector-instructor, of the Sixth Special Infantry Company, USMCR, last night commended the Boy Scouts who he said "did a good job and deserve a pat on the back."

A similar drive is being planned in the future, Capt. Tubbs added. Any resident who wishes to donate toys should contact the Associated Charities, Scout Office or the Marine Reserve on McKaig Hill.

Snow, Rain Hit Garrett Co. As State Cools Off

[By The Associated Press]
Snow mixed with rain in mountainous Garrett County Sunday as some other sections of Maryland had rain and generally cool weather.

The Weather Bureau said the May snow in Garrett was not too surprising, since it's been occurring there about every third year. And it apparently didn't amount to much.

Thermometers dipped to the freezing point in Cumberland early in the day and registered in the 50s in other sections.

Fastest Times Recorded In Pigeon Race

118 Birds Fly In 100-Mile Event

The fastest times recorded since the Allegany Racing Pigeon Club began its activities in 1952 were reported yesterday as favorable winds helped speed some 118 birds on their 100-mile flight from West Union, W. Va., to Cumberland.

It was foggy when the pigeons were released at West Union in the second old bird race of the season at 9 a. m. yesterday. It was cloudy and there were variable winds when the pigeons began reaching their 13 home lofts at 11:06 a. m.

Winner of this fast race was Lady Edna from the Clearview Loft of G. F. Martens in Frostburg with a speed of 1416.93 yards per minute. As a matter of fact most of the first 20 birds had faster speeds than ever previously recorded in races here.

Others in the top five were Pet, from the Excello Loft of M. M. Green, North Mechanic Street, 1414.71 yards; Ink, also from Excello, 1408.64 yards; Slow Poke from the Lost Loft of Dudley Shaffer, 1396.90 yards; and Power X, from the North End Loft of Francis Stichter, 1395.34 yards.

Finishing in the second five were Priority, from the Pear Alley Loft of J. H. Switzer, sixth, 1391.22 yards; The Hawk, Lucky's Loft of J. Luckiewicz, LaVale, seventh, 1391.11 yards; Big Jack, from the MacArthur Loft of C. A. Smith and J. J. McAtee, LaVale, eighth, 1389.41 yards; Temptation, from Lost Loft, ninth, 1384.06 yards; and Blue Girl, from Walnut Loft of Charles Smith, tenth, 1383.93 yards.

Next Sunday the pigeons will compete in a 175-mile race from Athens, Ohio.

Dairy Workers Will Begin Five-Day Week

Local 924 (AFL) Dairy Workers Union and several area dairies late last night entered into an agreement whereby the union members will begin working a five-day week today.

The agreement was reached after a meeting of the local last night and resulting conferences between representatives of the workers and the dairy operators.

When the new contract between Local 924 and the dairies became effective February 1, one of the understandings was that the contract would be reopened May 1 for the discussion of a five-day work week for the approximately 140 plant workers and driver-servicemen.

Since March 1, when Sunday deliveries were stopped, the plant workers and driver-servicemen have been working six days one week and five days the next, making them average five-and-one-half days per week.

Local Marine Takes Specialized Training

Staff Sergeant James P. Scott, USMC, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. M. Scott, 810 Stewart Avenue, is taking special training in the naval gunfire support of amphibious landings at the U. S. Naval Amphibious Base, Little Creek, Va.

Sergeant Scott played football and basketball for Fort Hill High School here and first entered the Marine Corps in 1946.

TB Association To Meet Friday

The annual meeting of the Allegany-Garrett Tuberculosis Association will be held Friday at 3 p. m.

The annual report of the association will be submitted to the board at the meeting in the Union Street County Building.

McKay To Push Parkway Plan

Secretary of the Interior Douglas McKay has promised his full personal and departmental backing for the proposed Chesapeake and Ohio Canal Parkway.

Senator J. Glenn Beall of Frostburg, who has been working to get the Parkway built for the past ten years, said Secretary McKay has given President Eisenhower his recommendation for construction of the scenic route.

Senator Beall now will seek to persuade the President to recommend the project. Beall, who said he believed McKay's recommendation would prove helpful, has requested an early opportunity to discuss the proposal at the White House.

The Senator also stated that he will now request the Department of the Interior to allocate funds for beginning construction of that section of the parkway between Cumberland and Hancock.

Fund authorization can be made under the Federal-Aid Highway Act of 1954, which was signed by

Fraternal Groups Present Programs On Mother's Day

Both the Eagles and the Moose lodges here had special ceremonies yesterday afternoon in observance of Mother's Day.

State Senator Robert B. Kimble was the principal speaker in the program of Cumberland Aerie 245, Fraternal Order of Eagles, at which a class of 43 candidates was initiated.

In his extemporaneous remarks, Senator Kimble stressed the four principals for which the Eagles stand—liberty, truth, justice and equality—and tied them in with the fraternal group's part in the observance of Mother's Day.

The Fraternal Order of Eagles was instrumental in having Congress designate a special day as Mother's Day. The first public address for such a day was made by the late Frank E. Hering, past grand worthy president and editor of the Eagles' magazine. That initial talk was delivered in Indianapolis on February 7, 1904.

Rev. Kenan R. Crowley, assistant pastor of St. Peter and Paul Catholic Church, delivered the Mother's Day message at the program yesterday afternoon at the home of Cumberland Lodge No. 271, Loyal Order of Moose.

A. Charles Stewart, register of wills for Allegany County, was master of ceremonies. The invocation was delivered by Rev. Carl Johnson Jr., pastor of First Christian Church.

Governor Paul W. Allen gave the address of welcome. Earlene Hardman and Mrs. Dorothy Palmer sang at the opening of the program. Jade Green presented a toe dance; Ronnie Richardson played a trumpet solo; Carolyn Sue Layman presented a tap dance and a Hawaiian dance. Jade Green gave an acrobatic dance, and awards were presented to the oldest and youngest mothers present.

Rev. Johnson gave the benediction. Mrs. Dorothy Smith and Mrs. Marjorie Mulligan were flower girls and Mrs. Helen Pettie and Lawrence Barry provided the music.

The program was presented by the degree staff of the lodge. Charles E. Pettie is chairman, and Harry S. Lannon, Jack Vernall, Joseph Wolfe, James M. Roby, Raymond J. Smith, Russell Minicks and Edward Roberts are on the staff.

Secretary of the Interior Douglas McKay has promised his full personal and departmental backing for the proposed Chesapeake and Ohio Canal Parkway.

Senator J. Glenn Beall of Frostburg, who has been working to get the Parkway built for the past ten years, said Secretary McKay has given President Eisenhower his recommendation for construction of the scenic route.

Senator Beall now will seek to persuade the President to recommend the project. Beall, who said he believed McKay's recommendation would prove helpful, has requested an early opportunity to discuss the proposal at the White House.

The Senator also stated that he will now request the Department of the Interior to allocate funds for beginning construction of that section of the parkway between Cumberland and Hancock.

Airport Scene Of Sports Car Races Sunday

122 Entries Offer Thrill-Packed Day

The Cumberland Sports Car Races are still six days away, but already enthusiasm for the thrill-packed event is running high.

The local event, which is held at the Cumberland Airport under the auspices of the Cumberland Lions Club for the benefit of its Sight Conservation Program, will be held next Sunday, with the first of the five classified races getting underway at 9 a. m.

Previously it had been planned to send the first cars rolling over the 1.6-mile course at 9:30, but a change in plans occurred when it was learned that an Allegheny Airlines passenger plane will land at the airport at 9:57. This flight, having Pittsburgh as its destination, will be followed by a Washington-bound airliner making its landing here at 11:5

Three Hospitalized In Sunday Mishaps

In a series of automobile accidents in the Tri-State area over the weekend, 16 persons were injured and 11 hospitalized.

The three persons hospitalized in accidents yesterday include:

Mrs. Frank Gobeli, 53, of 432 Arch Street, admitted to Sacred Heart Hospital suffering a fractured nose and lacerations of the knee, hands and arms. She is in fair condition.

Rev. William Everett Wade, Gorman, W. Va., admitted to Memorial Hospital where X-rays will be taken. He is reported in good condition.

Edward Kitzmiller, 36, of Elk Garden, W. Va., admitted to Garrett Memorial Hospital, Oakland, suffering chest injuries.

Mrs. Gobeli, according to City Police, was injured when the car operated by her son, Donald L. Gobeli, clipped a telephone pole on South Street after the car had left the street and had run over a curb.

Officer John F. Daum said Mrs. Gobeli was injured when the car operated by her son, Donald L. Gobeli, clipped a telephone pole on South Street after the car had left the street and had run over a curb.

Crash At Intersection

Rev. Wade, according to State Trooper Robert Henline, was injured when his car and an auto driven by Edward Kitzmiller collided at an intersection on Route 560 about a mile north of Gorman.

The accident, police said, occurred about 11:45 a. m. (EDT) as Rev. Wade was pulling out of a country road onto Route 560. He was returning home from a morning church service.

Also injured and treated at the Oakland Hospital were Mrs. Margie Kitzmiller, 25, Gerald Kitzmiller, nine, and Justin Turner, of Jordan Run, who were riding in the Kitzmiller auto.

They were treated for cuts and bruises. No charges were filed pending further investigation.

Two Others Hurt

Attendants at Sacred Heart Hospital said James Melvin Gordon, 48, and his nephew, James Stanford VanMeter, 22, both of Rawlings, were hurt when their auto collided with a car driven by Walter Brook Rawlings, Keyser, on Route 220 near Cresaptown Saturday.

Lt. W. E. O'Hara, commander of LaVale Barracks, Maryland State Police, said the Keyser man's machine heading north towards Cumberland and the Gordon auto heading south wrecked just south of Cresaptown.

The Gordon car went over a 30-foot embankment and the Rawlings auto overturned, Lt. O'Hara said.

VanMeter was admitted to the hospital where 44 stitches were required to close the lacerations on his face and scalp sustained when his head went through the windshield of his uncle's car.

Gordon suffered superficial injuries but did not require hospitalization. Mrs. VanMeter, also a passenger in the Gordon car, was not hurt.

State Trooper Lindberg Cook investigated.

Students Injured

Admitted Friday to Sacred Heart were Charles Perkins, 23, and George Grames, 20, both students at Washington Missionary College, Takoma Park. Perkins was discharged Saturday, while Grames, who sustained head and back injuries, was reported in "good" condition last night. The students were injured when their car skidded on the wet highway nine miles east of Shipway's Inn, east of here.

Also admitted Friday evening to Sacred Heart were three members of a Farmington, W. Va., family, when their vehicle went out of control near Polish Mountain and skidded into a bank along the highway.

Attaches said the family group was in "fair" condition. They included Samuel Myers, 48, who was suffering from shock and a severe mouth injury; his wife, Mrs. Edna Myers, who suffered an injury to her right arm, and their five-year-old daughter, Louise, who sustained a fractured left leg.

Bedford County (Pa.) Memorial Hospital, Bedford, attaches reported Mrs. Evelyn Albrecht, 54, of Charlottesville, Va., had been transferred to a Pittsburgh hospital for treatment of "critical" injuries suffered in an accident on the Turnpike west of Bedford.

She was reported to have received a skull fracture, compound fracture of the spine, fractured ribs and punctured lungs when her car skidded on the wet highway and rolled into a drainage ditch.

Boy Hit By Car

A six-year-old boy was admitted to Sacred Heart Hospital yesterday afternoon with injuries sustained when he ran into the path of an automobile on Bedford Street.

Injured was Edward Leasure, son of Mr. and Mrs. Leo E. Leasure, 1804 Bedford Street. Attaches said the youth suffered a head injury and a fracture of the right leg.

Authorities, who said no charges would be preferred, identified the driver of the car as Herbert Wilson, Shanksville, Pa. The accident took place about 4 p. m., police said.

The father is an employee of the Times and Alleganian Company.

Annual Fun Fair In South End Starts Thursday

Many Activities Scheduled There

The South Cumberland Business Men's Association's annual Fun Fair is virtually ready to open at the Penn Avenue ball field, according to Nelson W. Russler, who is serving as general chairman of the festivities.

The fair will be held Thursday, Friday and Saturday. There will be evening sessions starting at 7 o'clock all three nights and continuing until the crowd leaves the grounds. On Saturday there will be a matinee starting at 1 o'clock.

Russler announced that on Saturday afternoon a bicycle will be given away as a prize to some boy or girl. The prizes for the adults Saturday night will be a 21-inch television set.

Special entertainment has been arranged for each evening of the Fun Fair. On Thursday night the Shrine Band will entertain. Friday night the Fort Hill High School band will play. On Saturday there will be a billiard ball contest and members of the Police Boys Club will present a brief boxing exhibition.

Six rides will be installed for the three-day Fun Fair. There will be a ferris wheel, merry-go-round, swings, a miniature train and airplane ride. Refreshments will be served.

Proceeds from the Fun Fair will be used by the business men for their Christmas decorations, for their Halloween parade prizes and for other civic purposes.

The Weather

It was topcoat weather again over the weekend as the mercury plunged to 34 degrees early yesterday. Robert R. Golden, official weather observer at Constitution Park, said a few groups of picknickers braved yesterday's chilly gloom and intermittent showers, although the official thermometer never went over 57 degrees. There was a light frost early yesterday in some sections, but no damage was reported. Humidity at 6 p. m. was 59 per cent and rainfall was too little to be measured. The Weather Bureau foresees more cool weather today, with a few scattered showers likely.

Today's Sermonette

Today's sermonette is a digest of the sermon preached Friday at Beth Jacob Synagogue by the spiritual leader, Rabbi Joseph Schmelman. The sermon digests are being prepared through the cooperation of the Cumberland Ministerial Association.

The Dangers Of Extremism

By RABBI J. SCHMELMAN

In times of confusion, such as we live in today, the greatest source for stability is the Bible. The Bible is purchased by more than five million people every year, greatly outnumbering all other books purchased combined. And this is so because the Bible has been the source of inspiration and the guiding light in times of trouble and distress.

The Bible states, "What thing soever I command you, even that shall ye observe to do, thou shalt not add to it, and thou shalt not diminish therefrom" (Deut. 13:1).

God doesn't want us to be too zealous in adding and making more strict the moral laws He gave us, nor does He desire that people interpret the Bible to say that such and such laws are not necessary in these days. Extremes of either sort are not healthy.

How many people have we met who have nothing to do with religion, only because they were brought up in a home that was extreme and overstrict in its religion.

Let us remember, when we are angered by certain conditions and are tempted to go to extremes beyond what God's law or our country's law calls for, that the extreme may lead eventually to the opposite end we are trying to achieve.

Volunteer Fire Fighters Plan June Convention

Event To Be Held At Friendsville

Virtually completed plans for the annual convention of the Allegany-Garrett County Volunteer Firemen's Association were approved yesterday at the May meeting of the association at the home of Ellerslie Volunteer Fire Department.

The convention, which will be held this year in Friendsville, will get under way at 1 p. m. (EDT) Thursday, June 3. The convention dinner will be served at the Friendsville School at 5 p. m. (EDT) and the parade will start at 7 p. m.

Besides the election of new officers, the feature of the convention probably will be a revision of the by-laws, according to present plans.

State Officials Invited

Invitations have been extended to officers of the State Firemen's Association to attend the convention in the Garrett County town. Those invited include William A. Chenoweth of Pikesville, president; John W. Smith, West Annapolis, first vice president; T. C. Gardner of Riverdale Heights, second vice president, and Robert C. Byrum, director of Fire Service Extension at College Park.

The two-county executive committee went on record yesterday as endorsing William A. Wilson of Midland for re-election as treasurer of the state association, a position he has filled for a number of years. The state convention will be held June 23, 24 and 25 in Ocean City.

Russler Is Honored

A past secretary's badge was presented to Nelson W. Russler at the Ellerslie meeting by William E. Lawyer of Bedford Road Company, president.

The group heard a report on efforts of the convention promotion committee to bring the state convention back to Cumberland in 1955. The last firemen's convention here was in 1951. The last two have been in Ocean City, as will this year's.

Members of the Auxiliary of the Ellerslie Volunteer Fire Department served a chicken dinner at the close of the meeting. Twenty-two of the 31 companies in the two counties were represented.

Local Approves New Contract With Breweries

Members of Local 265, Brewery Workers, yesterday morning approved a new one-year contract, retroactive to May 1, according to Orville M. Young, local president.

Covered by the pact are about 250 employees of the two local breweries, Cumberland Brewing Company and Queen City Brewing Company.

Young said the contract was approved at a special meeting of Local 265 at the Eagles Home on North Mechanic Street.

The only monetary change in the contract provides a five-cents-an-hour increase for all brewery workers.

A number of changes in the contract are simply clarifications which are beneficial to both the companies and the workers, Young explained.

Formal signing of the contract will be delayed until later this week so that copies can be printed, the local president said.

Although the old contract expired at midnight Friday, April 30, there was no cessation of operations. Both breweries continued operations under the old agreement.

Eagles Mother's Day Program

Among the principals in yesterday's Mother's Day program at the home of Aerie 245, Fraternal Order of Eagles, were (left to right) Herman L. Myers, secretary of the aerie; V. T. Morrissey, trustee; State Senator Robert B. Kimble, who gave the principal address;

Charles W. Robinette, president of the aerie; John H. Hager, trustee, and Lawrence I. Matt, treasurer. A class of 43 candidates was initiated as part of the observance. The Eagles are largely responsible for the national observance of the day.

5,000 Toys Collected In Drive Here

Over 5,000 discarded toys which will gladden the hearts of deserving children of Cumberland next December 25, were collected by Boy Scouts of the city during the "Toys for Tots" drive conducted Saturday morning.

These toys, which are now in a storeroom at 119 North Centre Street, will be repaired and repainted, and include every type toy from bicycles to sleds and small plastic cars.

The drive was conducted by the Marine Corps Reserve, Associated Charities and Boy Scouts. Capt. H. W. Tubbs Jr., inspector-instructor of the Sixth Special Infantry Company, USMCR, last night commended the Boy Scouts who he said "did a good job and deserve a pat on the back."

A similar drive is being planned in the future, Capt. Tubbs added. Any resident who wishes to donate toys should contact the Associated Charities, Scout Office or the Marine Reserve on McKaig Hill.

Snow, Rain Hit Garrett Co. As State Cools Off

[By The Associated Press] Snow mixed with rain in mountainous Garrett County Sunday as some other sections of Maryland had rain and generally cool weather.

The Weather Bureau said the May snow in Garrett was not too surprising, since it's been occurring there about every third year. And it apparently didn't amount to much.

Thermometers dipped to the freezing point in Cumberland early in the day and registered in the 50s in other sections.

Fastest Times Recorded In Pigeon Race

118 Birds Fly In 100-Mile Event

The fastest times recorded since the Allegany Racing Pigeon Club began its activities in 1952 were reported yesterday as favorable winds helped speed some 118 birds on their 100-mile flight from West Union, W. Va., to Cumberland.

It was foggy when the pigeons were released at West Union in the second old bird race of the season at 9 a. m. yesterday. It was cloudy and there were variable winds when the pigeons began reaching their 13 home lofts at 11:06 a. m.

Winner of this fast race was Lady Edna from the Clearview Loft of G. F. Martens in Frostburg with a speed of 1416.93 yards per minute. As a matter of fact most of the first 20 birds had faster speeds than ever previously recorded in races here.

Others in the top five were Pet, from the Exello Loft of M. M. Green, North Mechanic Street, 1414.71 yards; Ink, also from Exello, 1408.64 yards; Slow Poke from the Lost Loft of Dudley Shafter, 1396.90 yards; and Power X, from the North End Loft of Francis Stutcher, 1395.34 yards.

Finishing in the second five were Priority, from the Pear Alley Loft of J. H. Sweitzer, sixth, 1391.22 yards; The Hawk, Lucky's Loft of J. Luckiewicz, LaVale, seventh, 1391.11 yards; Big Jack, from the MacArthur Loft of C. A. Smith and J. J. McAtee, LaVale, eighth, 1389.41 yards; Temptation, from Lost Loft, ninth, 1384.06 yards; and Blue Girl, from Walnut Loft of Charles Smith, tenth, 1383.93 yards.

Next Sunday the pigeons will compete in a 175-mile race from Athens, Ohio.

Dairy Workers Will Begin Five-Day Week

Local 924 (AFL) Dairy Workers Union and several area dairies late last night entered into an agreement whereby the union members will begin working a five-day week today.

The agreement was reached after a meeting of the local last night and resulting conferences between representatives of the workers and the dairy operators.

When the new contract between Local 924 and the dairies became effective February 1, one of the understandings was that the contract would be reopened May 1 for the discussion of a five-day work week for the approximately 140 plant workers and driver-salesmen.

Since March 1, when Sunday deliveries were stopped, the plant workers and driver-salesmen have been working six days one week and five days the next, making them average five-and-one-half days per week.

Secretary of the Interior Douglas McKay has promised his full personal and departmental backing for the proposed Chesapeake and Ohio Canal Parkway.

Senator J. Glenn Beall of Frostburg, who has been working to get the Parkway built for the past ten years, said Secretary McKay has given President Eisenhower his recommendation for construction of the scenic route.

Fraternal Groups Present Programs On Mother's Day

Both the Eagles and the Moose lodges here had special ceremonies yesterday afternoon in observance of Mother's Day.

State Senator Robert B. Kimble was the principal speaker in the program of Cumberland Aerie 245, Fraternal Order of Eagles, at which a class of 43 candidates was initiated.

In his extemporaneous remarks Senator Kimble stressed the four principals for which the Eagles stand—liberty, truth, justice and equality—and tied them in with the fraternal group's part in the observance of Mother's Day.

The Fraternal Order of Eagles was instrumental in having Congress designate a special day as Mother's Day. The first public address for such a day was made by the late Frank E. Hering, past grand worthy president and editor of the Eagles' magazine. That initial talk was delivered in Indianapolis on February 7, 1904.

Rev. Kenan R. Crowley, assistant pastor of St. Peter and Paul Catholic Church, delivered the Mother's Day message at the program yesterday afternoon at the home of Cumberland Lodge No. 271, Loyal Order of Moose.

A. Charles Stewart, register of wills for Allegany County, was master of ceremonies. The invocation was delivered by Rev. Carl Johnson Jr., pastor of First Christian Church.

Governor Paul W. Allen gave the address of welcome. Earlene Hardman and Mrs. Dorothy Palmer sang at the opening of the program. Jade Green presented a toe dance; Ronnie Richardson played a trumpet solo; Carolyn Sue Layman presented a tap dance and a Hawaiian dance, Jade Green gave an acrobatic dance, and awards were presented to the oldest and youngest mothers present.

Rev. Johnson gave the benediction. Mrs. Dorothy Smith and Mrs. Marjorie Mulligan were flower girls and Mrs. Helen Pettie and Lawrence Barry provided the music.

The program was presented by the degree staff of the lodge. Charles E. Pettie is chairman, and Harry S. Lannon, Jack Vernal, Joseph Wolfe, James M. Roby, Raymond J. Smith, Russell Minicks and Edward Roberts are on the staff.

Local Marine Takes Specialized Training

Staff Sergeant James P. Scott, USMC, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. M. Scott, 810 Stewart Avenue, is taking special training in the naval gunfire support of amphibious landings at the U. S. Naval Amphibious Base, Little Creek, Va.

Sergeant Scott played football and basketball for Fort Hill High School here and first entered the Marine Corps in 1946.

TB Association To Meet Friday

The annual meeting of the Allegany-Garrett Tuberculosis Association will be held Friday at 3 p. m.

The annual report of the association will be submitted to the board at the meeting in the Union Street County Building.

McKay To Push Parkway Plan

Secretary of the Interior Douglas McKay has promised his full personal and departmental backing for the proposed Chesapeake and Ohio Canal Parkway.

Senator J. Glenn Beall of Frostburg, who has been working to get the Parkway built for the past ten years, said Secretary McKay has given President Eisenhower his recommendation for construction of the scenic route.

Senator Beall now will seek to persuade the President to recommend the project, Beall, who said he believed McKay's recommendation would prove helpful, has requested an early opportunity to discuss the proposal at the White House.

The Senator also stated that he will now request the Department of the Interior to allocate funds for beginning construction of that section of the parkway between Cumberland and Hancock.

Fund authorization can be made under the Federal-Aid Highway Act of 1954, which was signed by President Eisenhower on Thursday, May 6. The highway bill was acted on by the Senate Committee on Public Works, of which Senator Beall is a member, and authorized $12,500,000 for park roads and trails, and $11,000,000 for construction of parkways.

The Secretary is recommending that the Interior Department earmark part of the $11,000,000 in order to get the C&O Canal Parkway started.

"The support of the Secretary of the Interior," Senator Beall said, "will be invaluable in getting President Eisenhower to make a final recommendation to the Director of the Budget that this worthwhile project be started."

"Secretary McKay has given the green light to a project which I have worked on for over ten years, and if I am successful in obtaining an allocation of funds under authorization of the new highway bill I am confident we may soon set the date for construction to begin."

Senator Beall reported that the Secretary of the Interior in his final recommendation made mention of discussions the Senator and the Secretary had previously held on the project.

The Secretary of the Interior is reported to be in favor of the recreational use and the preservation of the natural loveliness of the Potomac River and the historic C & O Canal, and does not believe that the National Park Service should be in the business of constructing highways between cities even though such highways might be classified as parkway.

However, the Secretary has concluded that the proposed canal parkway should not be so considered, but is actually a scenicway through a park area.
